U.S., State Move Faster On Tidelands

Officials' Visit May Speed Up Final Settlement

BATON ROUGE (AP)—The state and federal governments Friday appeared to be moving a little more rapidly toward agreement on how much of the tidelands Louisiana owns.

A source here said that after U. S. Solicitor General Archibald Cox completes his aerial tour of the coast and discussions with Louisiana officials, scheduled for Nov. 20, the job of getting together on the tidelands may be speeded up.

SEEN AS BREAK

Cox' visit was described as "the first good break in developments in a long time. It will help the joint efforts of our congressional delegation and state officials."

In Washington, a source asking to remain unidentified said he "wouldn't at all discount" the possibility that a joint committee of state and federal experts may recommend a coastline by Jan. 1.

But the Washington source cautioned that more discussions and other preliminaries will be necessary before final agreement. The source suggested Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' administration may be pinning hopes for budget-balancing tidelands funds on passage of legislation pending in Congress.

Earlier, Rep. T. T. Fields of Union Parish, an administration house leader, said after a talk with Davis he believed the federal government was anxious for a tidelands settlement and the state would get up to $200 million of the $340 million in escrowed tidelands revenues.

A final Supreme Court decree on a coastline for Louisiana awaits outcome of the special joint committee's negotiations. If federal and state governments accept the recommendation, the court will order carried out its decree that Louisiana owns three miles beyond the coastline.

The legislation pending in Congress is aimed at getting 10½-mile of tidelands for Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama just as the high court ruled in the cases of Texas and Florida.

Army Lifts Recruit Air Travel Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army Friday night overruled two of its area headquarters which had attempted to ban or restrict air travel by recruits because of the crash that killed 74 soldiers in Richmond, Va., Wednesday night.

Earlier in the day, Second Army headquarters at Fort Meade, Md., banned air transport for recruits and First Army headquarters on Governor's Island in New York cancelled plans for use of non-scheduled airliners such as the Imperial Airlines plane in the Richmond accident.

But Friday night Army headquarters here issued this statement:

"There has been no change in Army policy regarding the transport of American military personnel from reception to induction centers. This policy permits the use only of commercial planes that are certified by the Federal Aviation Agency."

In response to a question, a spokesman said this statement restated non-scheduled airlines any place where they had been ruled out since the non-scheduled carriers as well as scheduled airlines are certified by the FAA.

In effect, the spokesman said, the Army was returning to the policy in force before the Richmond crash.

AFTER TEST LAUNCH

Atlas Explodes, Monkey Victim

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Goliath, a tiny squirrel monkey, died in the explosion of an Atlas missile Friday and added its name to the honor roll of animals that have given their lives to make space travel safer for man.

There was a possibility the failure could delay this nation's plan to send a chimpanzee into orbit next week and an astronaut over the same course later this year. But officials said that no plans have been changed, pending careful study of data.

The Atlas which malfunctioned is an advanced model of the missile ticketed for the Project Mercury chimp and astronaut shots and officials want to take a close look at what went wrong before risking further life.

OFF COURSE

The missile shot off course and erupted 30 seconds after it was launched, spreading a raging fireball several thousand feet above the Cape. The Air Force reported the range safety officer destroyed the missile when it became erratic.

There was no announcement on cause of the trouble. But reformed sources said the main sustainer engine shut off inexplicably 15 seconds after launching and the two booster engines were unable to maintain course. The sustainer was to have burned

BY STATE GRANDMOTHER

Feminine Drivers Are Termed Safest

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — If you want to make Mrs. B. V. Todd angry, just mention "woman driver" in derogatory terms.

She represents an estimated 43 million women drivers in this country.

As director of the Women's Division of the Automotive Safety Foundation in Washington, she heads the safe-driving campaign now being waged actively by 22 women's organizations.

"Anybody who says men are better drivers than women simply doesn't know what he's talking about," says Mrs. Todd, 52, a quiet grandmother whose home is Lake Arthur, La.

Nothing angers her more than for someone to refer slightingly to women drivers.

"That's an old-fashioned cliche and anybody who uses it simply isn't informed," she said in an interview.

"Women are better drivers because they are more concerned with better driving; they take refresher courses in driving; they are more up-to-date than their husbands.

"They are basically concerned because of their family. They want their husbands and their children to be better drivers, so they are better drivers themselves.

"Their attitude around the home is that the mother should be a good driver, if she expects her family to drive safely. The mother does most of the driving in the family, anyway."

Mrs. Todd said the women's organizations are campaigning for safer driving all the way from the high schools to the courts.

She was here to tell a recent meeting of the American Bar Association what women expect from the courts.

Convention Of Baptists Set Monday

The annual Louisiana Baptist Brotherhood Convention opens in West Monroe Monday night with the theme "Men in a Changing World," and will kick off the state Baptist Convention.

Sam Dunbar Jr., of Baton Rouge, president of the organization is expected to preside over the session.

Several men from the Twin City area will play important parts in the convention. They include:

D. C. Black, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, who will give a report on the children's home. Dr. James T. Horton, pastor of the First Church in Monroe, who will report on the educational commission; Rev. T. Earl Ogg, pastor of the College Place Church, who will give a report for the committee on committees, and the Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Sterlington, who will report to the convention for the credentials committee.

LEAD SINGING

Veo Gray, minister of music for the First Baptist Church of Monroe, will lead "100 Singing Men" at the Brotherhood Convention Monday night.

Approximately 2,500 messengers and visitors are scheduled to attend the 114th annual session of the Louisiana Baptist Convention which will follow brotherhood on Tuesday and will mark the third time it has been held in West Monroe. In the past, conventions were held in 1930 and 1939.

The First Baptist Church of West Monroe with Dr. Clifton Fennison as pastor, will be the host church.

The opening session of the convention will be at 9:2a Tuesday with the Rev. H. A. Hunderup, president of the LBC presiding. The Rev. Hunderup, pastor of the Franklin Avenue Baptist Church in New Orleans, will also deliver his presidential address during this session. Dr. James W. Taylor, pastor of the Highland

Jurors Start Speculations Over Cooley Sanatorium May Be Site Of Well Or Institution

Gas wells and a retarded children's institution. That's the future seen for the G. B. Cooley sanatorium by Ouachita Police Jury President M. W. Montgomery. Judge Enos C. McClendon of Minden ruled Friday that the property belongs to the parish.

The board of governors of the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis Association, which filed suit in district court here asking that they be named owner, will meet next Wednesday to discuss the decision.

Their attorney said yesterday, "We probably should reach some firm conclusion at that time," on whether the board will appeal McClendon's ruling.

INCREASE REVENUE

Montgomery, retired from the gas drilling business, suggested that the parish increase its revenues by drilling one or two gas wells on the Cooley land.

"I know there's gas there," he said. "It's located in the Monroe gas field."

He said the parish might realize $80 or more each day from gas sales.

The president of the parish governing body also said he favors turning the buildings over to the Ouachita Parish Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Ike Hamilton, president of the children's group, said, "We're delighted, because we certainly have a need for it."

Judge McClendon decided that the parish owns the 26 acres and sanatorium buildings because:

1. The Police Jury secured construction funds ($100,000 from the federal WPA and $10,000 to $11,000 local matching funds) and maintained the sanatorium through parish taxes for 20 years.

2. The deed of 1935, in which the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association and G. B. Cooley turned over the land to the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis Association, reads, "the title and

Civil Service Probe Of Pilot Hiring Slated

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana civil service department will probe the hiring of a pilot at $700 a month by the Highway Department.

Civil service personnel director W. W. McDougall said Friday his office will investigate the contract.

The highway department said Thursday it had a contract with Edwin B. Little of Baton Rouge to fly a plane it has under a lease-purchase agreement.

Little was hired on a part time basis giving the department priority on his services, but allowing him outside work. This was done despite a refusal by civil service to create a special classification for Little.

McDougall said his office will review the contract for compliance with the law. If it does not comply, the contract will have to be voided by the state, he said.

MANY DIE IN FLAMES

Surviving Pilot Tells Of Crash

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The impact of Wednesday night's Imperial Airlines Constellation crash which killed 77 persons "didn't seem like hardly anything," the surviving pilot said Friday.

Ronald H. Conway, 29, skipper of the plane, told newsmen his crippled craft "was limping in for an emergency landing at Richmond's Byrd Field with two of its four engines out, another losing power fast, and a balky nosewheel."

"Get on it with me, Ronnie," he said his copilot James Greenlee called out as the plane started to settle.

PLANE PANCAKES

Greenlee had been flying the ship and Conway grabbed his controls also. The two of them fought to keep the sinking airliner in flight to make the runway at Byrd Field, but it pancaked into a marshy woodland two miles short of the airfield.

In the fiery crash—survived only by Conway and his flight engineer—most of the victims survived the impact to die in the smoke and flames, a state medical examiner said.

Blood tests run on 40 of 45 of the victims' bodies indicate they died of suffocation, said Dr. H. H. Karnitschnig, acting Virginia chief medical examiner. About 65 autopsies have been completed, he said.

Karnitschnig said arm and leg fractures found on the bodies could have resulted from injuries in the panic to escape the burning plane. Many bodies, he said, were in a jumble, caused either by the force of the crash or in a rush to escape.

Fourteen of the 74 Army men and the stewardess Linda Johns of Miami have been identified, Karnitschnig said. The grim job

Two Tellers Also Bound In Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three young gunmen, one disguised as a woman, took $62,693 from a San Francisco bank Friday after holding families of two bank officials captive all night in their suburban homes.

The gunmen tied up six persons in an official's home and two girl tellers at the Bank of America's Union and Webster St. Branch. No one was harmed but there were threats that guns "might go off" if the victims did not cooperate.

A son of one of the officials said the man dressed as a woman "had hair on her chest and a tattoo on her arm and she was no lady."

HAUL VICTIMS

The robbers hauled some of their victims many miles at gunpoint and police said that fact probably would add kidnaping to the bank robbery charge if they were caught.

The families' ordeal began about 6:30 Thursday night when the three men went to the home of bank manager Joseph Finocchio in Greenbrae 17 miles north of San Francisco. Finocchio, 55, and his wife Louise were just sitting down to dinner.

When Finocchio answered the door the man dressed as a woman shoved a pistol at him and said, "Move in." They were followed into the house by two more gunmen. All were in their mid-twenties.

The gunmen tied up Mrs. Finocchio and left her in the house with one man. The other two took Finocchio in his own car and drove across the Golden Gate Bridge, through San Francisco and on to suburban Millbrae, 15 miles south of the city.

They went to the home of Henry Lupori, assistant bank manag

NEAR BERLIN WALL

Grenade Thrown At U.S. Officers

BERLIN (UPI) — A Communist policeman attacked five uniformed American officers with a tear gas grenade at Berlin's dividing wall Friday.

The resentment shown against U.S. soldiers was in sharp contrast to the unhindered movement of an infantry company through East Germany to West Berlin Friday.

As described by West Berlin police, the grenade incident occurred when the five officers were looking over the wall between the east and west sectors of the city. The East German policeman hurled the tear gas apparently without provocation.

NO INTERFERENCE

The U.S. Army convoy crossed Communist East Germany and passed through Soviet checkpoints at both ends of the 110-mile highway from the west without incident. The East German Communists in line with four-power agreements did not interfere in any way.

A diplomatic source described Friday's convoy test run as similar to "keeping a tap dripping in the winter so the water pipes won't freeze."

The motorized infantry company moved through East Germany in a convoy of 9 jeeps and 18 trucks and arrived here in three sections.

Allied sources said the troop movement not only was an expression of the Western right to send troops through the Soviet zone but was an expression of American determination to keep the access routes open by using them.

Friday's convoy was the first of a series of similar movements that will send troops traveling both ways along the superhighway.

Pilots Call Off Strike Of Airlines

CHICAGO (UPI) — Pilots called off a scheduled strike against Pan American World Airways Friday night after President Kennedy created a special emergency board to investigate their contract dispute.

The Air Line Pilots Association ALPA) announced "we will abide by the requirements of the law and have notified our pilots of the government's action."

The ALPA announcement came after the President created the investigative board and instructed it to report settlement recommendations within 30 days. The White House action automatically postponed the strike, which has been set for one minute before midnight (local time) Friday night, for at least 60 days.

Clarence N. Sayen, president of the pilots union, indicated that the ALPA was agreeing to the postponement reluctantly.

He said in a statement that negotiations have been in progress for almost 18 months — eight of which were spent in fact-finding — and it is unfair and impractical to now appoint a new board to begin fact-finding again."

U. S. POLICY NO HELP

Dogs Can't Read, Still Bite Mailmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal officials say they're again getting their teeth into the problem of dogs biting postmen.

In a letter to a Washington resident Friday asking about the problem, they said they hoped to announce a new policy on it soon.

"But we have yet to come up with a magic formula to curb the canines lusty appetite for postman's shank, very rare," wrote an aide to Postmaster General J. Edward Day.

The aide, D. Jamison Cain, said the present policy, instituted by the Post Office Department under Arthur E. Summerfield, Day's predecessor, hasn't solved the problem.

That policy calls for a warning letter to the owner of the offending dog after a postman is bitten. In case of repeated attack, the owner loses his home delivery service and must pick up mail at the post office.

That policy was adopted after more than 6,000 carriers reported they were bitten by dogs in 1957.

"There was really only one important flaw in the program," said Cain. "The dogs couldn't read. Then too, the warning letter policy exposes the postman to double jeopardy.

"Such a letter requires delivery, and the bitten postman must again face his canine antagonist before the dog owner can be advised of the first attack," Cain said.

"The proposed new policy now under study by our dog bite experts, would permit the postmaster to telephone the dog owner rather than write him a letter."

But Cain said some mail patrons have no telephones, and that "is now the major flea in our ointment."

"As soon as we dispense with this bone of contention," he added, "we will announce our new policy, which we expect to be a dog gone good one."

Shreveport Arrests On DWI Hit 66

SHREVEPORT (Special)—Compared with Monroe's 118 arrests for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, only 66 drivers were arrested in Shreveport during the same 90-day period.

Yesterday's Monroe Morning World carried a report compiled by Monroe City Judge W. M. Harper showing that from August 4 until November 5 of this year, 118 drivers had been arrested by Monroe officers.

This is an average of 1.3 per day.

A check yesterday in Shreveport court records showed that 66 motorists had been charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Of this total 36 were eventually convicted and fined in Shreveport's municipal court. Eight forfeited bonds in Shreveport and a total of $8,400 was assessed in fines. The bond forfeitures amounted to an additional $1,200 collected.

In Shreveport, 14 drivers drew jail terms in addition to their fines for a total of 225 days in jail.

In comparison to these figures, in Monroe 84 pleaded guilty to the charges against them, 18 forfeited bail, 10 pleaded not guilty and were convicted, three were found not guilty and three were still facing trial at the time the report was issued.

Surviving Pilot Tells Of Crash

is continuing in a temporary morgue.

Because of the crash, the Army immediately changed its plans for transporting other recruits in the 1st Army area.

About 20 New Jersey recruits, due to be flown to Ft. Jackson, S.C., Thursday last night, went by train. The doomed airplane was headed for Ft. Jackson with 70 recruits and four regular Army men aboard on a flight which started in Newark, N.J., where 26 boarded.

Thirty-one others went aboard at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and 17 more at Baltimore's Friendship Airport. All the Army personnel and three of the five crew members died in the crash. Only Conway and the flight engineer, William Poythress, 31, of Miami, survived.

Conway's pert brunette wife, Beverly, was at his side as the pilot, clad in striped blue pajamas and seated in a wheelchair, told of the flight from Baltimore to the time of the crash.

Conway said he and Greenlee were struggling to keep the stricken plane in the air but its two remaining engines—one faltering—proved insufficient to carry it the additional distance to the runway.

The pilot estimated that about 30 miles northwest of Richmond, Poythress said he "had fuel warning lights in No. 3 and 4 engines, which indicated we had a fuel problem of some sort."

Poythress and Greenlee "tried everything they knew to try to get the engines going again," said Conway. "I finally told them they better concentrate on one at a time. We shut down No. 3 engine so they could concentrate on the No. 4."

Conway, of West Hollywood, Fla., said he saw the lights from the city of Richmond and called Byrd Field to say the plane was in trouble.

"The airplane was under complete control on the two engines," he said.

The Richmond tower told them to use runway No. 33—a northwest lane and at 8,000 feet the field's longest—but because of approaching from the west, Conway said they couldn't use it.

"They lit up all the runways for us," Conway said. Greenlee then said they would try another runway almost in line with their approach.

"But then we had difficulty," Conway said. "You have to take a few minutes to lower the landing gear in a situation like this. We elected then to continue around and land on runway 33. The airplane was still under complete control."

Greenlee was still flying, Conway said, because the runway was off to the right side of the plane.

On the turn for the final approach, Conway said, Poythress "reported that we were losing power on our No. 1 engine" due to high engine temperatures caused by the surge of power at low speed.

"At that time, Capt. Greenlee said, 'Get on it with me, Ronnie,'" Conway said. "He said, 'Call out the air speed.' So I started calling out the air speed. We were on the final approach and we were flying it right down to the last minute. I saw that we had one engine on full power and the other engine was losing partial power. In that configuration, it wasn't going too far.

"I saw the trees coming up. I called out to Capt. Greenlee, 'I see the trees coming!'

"We prepared then to put the airplane in a nose high attitude and at the slowest possible air speed so that the impact wouldn't be too great. When we hit the trees, the impact didn't feel too severe to me."

Conway said the jolt of the crash threw his head forward, striking the control wheel.

After drawing back, Conway said, "the first thing I thought of was the impact didn't seem like hardly anything. But then immediately I realized the airplane was on fire. The airplane caught fire immediately, because it looked bright as daylight outside. Everyone in the cockpit was on their feet right away.

"The first thing we were going to do was go back in the cabin. We opened the cockpit door to the cabin and by this time the cabin was already full of smoke. We could see flames. We knew it would be impossible to get in the cabin.

"So the flight engineer (Poythress) opened the crew door just aft of his station. We looked out this door and all we could see was flames. And I said, 'If you go out that way, you're going to have to jump through the fire.'"

Conway said he squeezed out of a small side window by his pilot's seat. "I figured if anybody could get through that small window, it would be me because I was slender," he said.

"Capt. Greenlee and the flight engineer were standing by the crew door," the pilot said, "and they hesitated because of the fire out there to jump. I said, 'I think it's the only way out. But we can't all go right now. If we don't go pretty soon the smoke is going to get us. I'm going to try to go out the window. Jim (Greenlee), please jump out the door and just start rolling.'"

Greenlee's hesitation cost him his life.

Conway said after landing on the ground outside the plane he turned around and looked at the wreckage.

"By this time it was impossible to get back close to it because the heat was so intense," he said. "The entire airplane was engulfed by flames except for a small part of the cockpit by that time."

use of the above property shall remain in perpetuity to the public."

3. The deeds of 1935 and 1938 and the charter of the O.P.T.A. showed an intention to dedicate the land to the public, and to vest the title in the public. "The Ouachita Parish Police Jury is the responsible corporate body of the public in this instance."

4. The tax assessor has not placed the property on the assessment rolls during the past three years — "further evidence of the public character of the property."

"All of these things," ruled the judge, "combine to convince the Court that there was a specific dedication of this property to the public by both G. B. Cooley, Trustee, and the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association . . . as well as by plaintiff Association.

". . . Title to the 26 acres . . . should be in the Ouachita Parish Police Jury for the public use in such manner as said Police Jury may determine is best for the entire parish."

Montgomery said that if the land is drilled for gas, the parish probably will not lease the wells out. "We'll want to drill it ourselves. We would sell gas to pipeline companies . . . and we also would have free gas for the Cooley buildings."

Estimating the revenues such a well might bring in, he said it would be "according to how much the well would produce. A million cubic feet would be about an average figure for that area.

"If we sold it for at least eight cents per thousand cubic feet, we would get about $80 a day . . . and we might get twice that."

Aside from initial drilling costs of approximately $10,000 per well, Montgomery said that the well would be a money - making venture for the parish, and said that no royalty, and possibly no severance, taxes would have to be paid.

WOULDN'T INTERFERE

"We would fix it so that the wells wouldn't interfere with the buildings," he explained. "Of course that could be easily handled."

"I think it would be mighty nice. We'd have some extra income for the parish," he said, and volunteered to look after the drilling while it is underway.

"We'd have to advertise for to have it drilled, and give it to the lowest bidder. I'd see that they carry out the work according to the drilling contract."

Mrs. Hamilton said that if the parish turns the buildings over to the Association for Retarded Children, there is a good indication that the state will furnish money to operate an institution.

"We've had some indications of help from Sen. Warren Falgout of New Orleans," she said.

Falgout, chairman of the committee to study the needs of exceptional children in Louisiana, and the five committeemen, toured the Cooley facility in January.

"Rep. Mike John talked with Sen. Falgout in Baton Rouge last week," said Mrs. Hamilton, "and the senator said that he and the commission certainly will do all they can to put it into operation if the Police Jury sees fit to give it to us.

How would the Association for Retarded Children use the institution?

To take care of the severely mentally retarded children and adults of Ouachita Parish, who need institutional care.

"Services are available to 'educable' or higher grade retardates in the community," said Mrs. Hamilton. "We are thinking of those who need 24 - hour care."

Forty - six Ouachita parish residents are among 1500 on the waiting list for admittance into the State Colony for the retarded at Pineville.

"They're doing the very best they can at the Colony," said Mrs. Hamilton. "They've tried to make room for these children from Ouachita who need institutional care.

"But they don't have the facilities to care for all who need help."

Atlas Explodes, Monkey Victim

for more than four minutes.

Flaming chunks of the rocket sprayed into the Atlantic offshore and onto remote areas of the Cape, starting small brush fires in the area. The manned section of the nose cone which carried the monkey, sank in about 100 yards of shore.

The Air Force said there is a possibility it might be recovered if it can be found.

Officials said there was no chance the primate passenger could have survived the tremendous explosion. There was no rocket escape mechanism on the cone as there is on the Mercury spacecraft. Goliath was the 29th known rocket-borne animal to die.

Goliath's capsule, a 1x1-foot cylinder, was situated near the base of the 12-foot-tall cone, just above one of the Atlas' huge fuel tanks. Experts figured he probably died the instant of the explosion.

The Atlas was intended to fly a 5,000-mile course, hurling the nose cone into a South Atlantic target area where search planes and a recovery ship waited. The cone was to reach an altitude of 650 miles.

Scientists hoped to learn how the monkey withstood the stresses of space flight, especially the approximately 20 minutes of weightlessness it would have endured on the 25-minute test. Although only six inches tall, the animal has brain and body characteristics similar to man.

No straps, biomedical instruments or other devices restrained the monkey. Officials wanted to determine its reactions while the animal floated free in small well-padded cabin, which was equipped with a life support system. A color movie camera was to have recorded evidence of actions.

Goliath, who came to the United States seven months ago from the Amazon jungle of South America, had been trained to suck water from a rubber nipple in response to a flashing light during the flight. He had been in the capsule more than 33 hours without food or water before the launching. This was necessary because technicians had to have time to check compatibility of the Atlas and the cone. The launching had been scheduled Thursday but was postponed 24 hours for technical reasons.

The men cleaned out the vaults then telephoned to tell their accomplice at the Finocchio home that they had completed the job. They left Lupori and the two tellers tied up.

driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages in Shreveport is $150. In Monroe, first offense on the charge draws a usual fine of $425 plus court costs.

Shreveport has a population of 164,372 while Monroe's population, according to the 1960 census, was 52,219 — more than a three-to-one advantage for Shreveport. But driving while intoxicated arrests in Monroe ran almost two-to-one above the larger city's.

Baptist Church in Shreveport will close the session with the annual convention sermon.

The possible adoption of a $2,655,000 history-making budget for the coming year will be one of the prospective highlights of the entire convention.

Celebration plans will be made for the 150th anniversary of the founding of the first Baptist Church in Louisiana. The first church of the Baptist religion was founded on October 12, 1812 at Half Moon Bluff in Washington Parish. The church is no longer standing.

Featured speakers for Tuesday's sessions will be Dr. Robert L. Lee, executive secretary of the LBC, and Dr. Harold Smith, noted Southern Baptist evangelist and radio speaker from Dallas, Texas.

Dr. John W. Drakeford, professor of psychology at Southwestern Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth, will climax the Wednesday session with an address and the Rev. Bucker Fanning, pastor of the Trinity Church in San Antonio, Tex., will be featured Wednesday afternoon.

The Wednesday night session will be closed with an address by Dr. Monroe Swilley, pastor of the Second-Ponce de Leon Church in Atlanta, Ga.

Singing at all sessions of the convention will be led by Curtis Bryan, minister of music for the Zoar Church in Baton Rouge.

Robert Kennedy Is Invited To Visit In Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West German Ambassador Wilhelm G. Grewe called on Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy Friday and discussed the possibility of President Kennedy's brother visiting Berlin.

"We feel it would be a good thing for every member of this administration to visit Berlin to get a distinct impression of the situation there," Grewe said after a 45-minute talk with the attorney general at the Justice Department.

Grewe told United Press International that he had not extended a formal invitation to Kennedy.

for a final political compromise already is laid, and only the mechanics of the committee's recommendation and final negotiations are incomplete.

This may be the reason Davis has continued to be "always optimistic." He appears to see ready cash coming in whenever the negotiators get together.

Informed political sources say an interim agreement will almost immediately turn loose the escrowed money. Here is how it reportedly will be done:

Louisiana will be given all escrowed revenues, some say $192 million to $200 million, from the area within a line three miles from the selected coastline.

On the other hand, all outside that line will be released to the federal government, since under a Supreme Court decree it would become property of the federal government. It could not belong to the state once the court accepted the compromised coastline and completed its ruling.

The legislation before Congress then will be dealt with as another matter entirely. Whenever Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama get Congress to pass a law that their boundaries are 10½ miles from the coastline, all revenues from that day on will be theirs.

Your Baby And Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

"Dear Mrs. Eldred:

"After reading your column, I just had to write about another side of the 'teacher problem.' I pray you will print some advice on this for parents and teachers alike.

"I have a bright 8-year-old who has done exceptionally well in school with praise from previous teachers. He has always been quite advanced, could multiply in second grade, has read and absorbed a whole set of encyclopedia and has loved school so much I could hardly keep him home when sick.

"In this short time he has come to hate school. Each night he comes home with some little incident that brings uncontrolled tears. 'Mom, I just can't please her,' he tells me.

"She says he writes too large or too black. He asks too many questions. What does not seem 'small' to me is that she is destroying his confidence in himself. He feels inferior and rejected. I think children should be corrected but a professionally trained person should do this without these results.

"There are so many teachers who encourage children, but I want to say right now that there are lemons in the business, too, and my child has fallen into such hands. What can a mother do? How can I handle this problem sensibly?"

TALK TO TEACHER

The first step is to talk to the boy's teacher. Even if you feel she is unapproachable, you should endeavor to hear her side of this controversy. At eight years the child—any child—is eager for the teacher's attention. He would angle for this. Having been such a precocious child and probably "made over" by the other teachers, he is unprepared for one who will not allow him to go uncorrected or usurp her time.

If the talk with the teacher does not improve the situation, then you can go to the principal; but it is good manners not to go over the teacher's head without hearing her side first.

If the situation does not improve after these two steps have been taken, you would do well to try to change schools. I recognize your great concern that this bright boy should not have his love for school shattered—but along with this he must learn to get along and adjust to different teachers, even though they may not be the same type as those in previous years. This is part of growing up, too.

For proper growth, the youngster must be properly nourished. The booklet, "The School Child's Food and Food Habits," lists appetizing and nutritious menus and economical diets. To obtain it, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Ike, Truman Coolness Ends

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—A long period of coolness between Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower ended Friday as the former presidents met, shook hands cordially and conferred in private for about 15 minutes.

Their meeting, unannounced in advance, was the first time either one had called on the other since Eisenhower's inauguration in January 1953. They had kept their distance since then, except for a brief handshake at the funeral of Gen. George C. Marshall two years ago and a brief meeting at Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson's funeral in 1953.

"Come in, come in," Truman said, with a smile, as they shook hands.

"It's good to see you again," Eisenhower replied.

Testing Your Horse Sense

Score one point for a correct solution of each of the first five problems. The last problem counts five points. Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior.

1. This date on our calendar used to be termed which day?
   Flag Day, Armistice Day, Peace Day, Independence Day
2. Daniel Boone should make one think primarily of a
   Padlock, Oarlock, Flintlock, Forelock.
3. A chuch roast made which typical sound while afoot?

4. Employment managers nowadays often use which method to select new workers?
   Panning, Straining, Sifting, Screening
5. Which one of these backs has no legs whatever?
   Swayback, Fullback, Zwieback, Razorback
6. This is a true-false problem in which you are to encircle the letter "T" if you think the statement is true or the "F" if you deem it false. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgement. This problem deals with the predicted doubling of college enrollments in the next decade.
   T F (a) The Student-Teacher ratio shows that high school faculty members handle far more pupils per teacher than do college teachers.
   T F (b) College professors put in more hours in the school building than do high school teachers.
   T F (c) By adding a second educational shift to start in mid-afternoon, our colleges could handle double their present enrollments without spending a cent for new buildings.
   T F (d) College faculty salaries could easily be raised 50 per cent just by imitating the high school Student-Teacher ratio.
   T F (e) The average college professor does NOT spend more than 12 hours PER WEEK in the classroom.

ANSWERS

1. Armistice Day (Of World War)
2. Flintlock (Rifle)
3. Low (Cow)
4. Screening (By various tests)
5. Zwieback (Toast)
6. True (a) 24:1 vs. 17:1 colleges. False (b), the reverse. High school teachers work harder than college profs. True (c), Present buildings could handle THREE shifts. True (d), that 2nd shift is the "profit" shift. True (e), 12 hours is a full teaching load—only half the high school teacher's load!

Definite Views

WINNER, S.D. (UPI)—Farmer R. W. Leek has specific views about hunters and game commission policies. He recently ran the following ad in the Winner Advocate and Journal.

"No hunting, trespassing, trapping or low altitude flying over E 1-3, section 3. W ½ NW ¼—NE 1-3, section 2. W ½ NW ¼ section 2 of NW ¼ 12-10 1.75 or NW ¼ section 35 and W ½ SW ¼ 35-10 2.75.

"I do not want the badger, skunk, hawk, owl, prairie chicken, grouse, wolf, fox, eagle, whooping crane, if any, molested on my land, and the game commission has no more right to make us let pheasant run on our land than to make us feed wild hogs or elephants so they could sell hunting licenses for them."

Split Supreme Court

Much criticism has been aimed at the United States supreme court because of its many split decisions, many of them on a five-to-four count. Some of this criticism probably is justified because of the way these splits occur. Nevertheless, a supreme court that was almost always unanimous could be far more dangerous than a divided court.

That would be true because, if decisions were generally unanimous, it would usually mean either that one man dominated the court or that they were all of the same ideology. That would be a dangerous situation, in either instance, because there would be little likelihood that a fair decision would be made.

It is the special quality of the litigation which explains the sharp divisions of the court. Of course, there are some cases in which the issues are so clear-cut that a unanimous decision is likely to and should be returned.

Some of these facts were pointed out by Archibald Cox, solicitor general of the United States, in an address before the 14th annual convention of the American Judicature Society.

The character of many of the issues would make divisions inevitable even if the self-restraint practiced by some earlier justices in withholding dissent still prevailed.

Divisions and disagreements are not only desirable but essential among the justices, just as they are among people in a democracy. Unanimity could be achieved only by appointing to the court nine justices with one cast of mind and one set of experiences or by having a chief justice so dominant that he would sway the minds of the others. If that occurred, we would have unanimous decisions and a clear-cut line of authority, all one way or all the other. This might seem desirable to those who know the right answers to all questions, provided, of course that the court's unanimous answers were the same as theirs.

In truth, the most fundamental and divisive issues that face the community should not be decided overnight, nor should they be decided in a clear-cut fashion, all one way or all the other, until time and events have matured the analysis.

In people's personal relations with each other, particularly in family life, there are many issues on which a clear-cut decision is never needed and to force it forces a surrender of one person or the other when no such surrender is needed.

One makes safer and quicker progress through an unfamiliar swamp by proceeding from hummock to hummock, from island to island, sometimes taking two steps forward and one backward, or even sometimes one step forward and two steps backward. Once a person emerges safely from the swamp he does not spend time bemoaning the fact that he might have taken a more direct route if he had only known the way.

In the supreme court the size and quality of the interests affected is extraordinary. In many cases the real contest is not so much between individuals and business corporations as between institutions and ways of life. In reaching decisions, this fact is recognized.

Throughout American history the prime examples have been the contests between state and federal authority and the definition of the powers of the executive and legislative branches. A recent example is the work of the court in defining the investigatory powers of congress.

The school segregation cases, the appeals from conviction of "sit-in," and the inevitable litigation over "freedom riders" grow out of the conflict between demands for so-called equality (as if legislation could create equality) on the one hand and, on the other, a way of life deeply rooted in the customs of many of our people since the signing of the declaration of independence. This issue sharply emphasizes the conflict between the federal government and the states, since the federal government is trying to tell the states how they must run their affairs.

As long as the people of a nation have a free vote, they not only determine the character of the administration but also the character of the supreme court, although as far as that court is concerned, "the mills of the gods grind slowly."

Our principal trouble now, as far as the supreme court is concerned, is not the split decisions but the fact that a majority of the members of the court base their decisions on their own personal ideologies and not on law and precedent and often not even on justice.

The voters of the country have created this supreme court by electing the mostly liberal-socialist presidents who appointed the members.

What we need most is not a unanimous supreme court but one whose members believe in the states' rights guaranteed under the constitution and in the fundamental principles of free enterprise, free speech and free choice.

Two Methods For 'K' Bombs

Largest Explosion Set Off By Three-Layer Hydrogen Bomb Dropped From High-Flying Jet

One of the most chilling findings to come out of the evaluation of Russia's nuclear explosions is an Air Force estimate that the Soviets tested successfully two methods of delivering their monster "K" bombs.

This hard nose intelligence evaluation reveals that the largest of the Soviets' two "K" bomb explosions was set off by a three-layer hydrogen bomb dropped from a high flying eight - engine jet bomber similar to our B-52.

This super - weapon exploded with the terrifying force of 55 million tons of TNT. It was detonated at a height of 12,000 feet over water near Novaya Zemlya in the Arctic region.

The 55 - megaton bomb was dropped by parachute to permit a specially trained crew to fly the jet to a safe distance from where the largest man-made explosion shattered the atmosphere.

The other giant "K" weapon, which was set off first, was a missile warhead that exploded with a force of about 47 megatons of TNT. It was detonated at a height of 55,000 feet atop one of the largest rockets in the Soviet arsenal.

The two "K" bomb explosions, as well as other tests in the recent Soviet series, were recorded on film by long - range cameras in RB-47 reconnaissance jet bombers and U.S. nuclear submarines operating near the Soviets' Arctic testing area.

President Kennedy and his chief intelligence and political advisers are now trying to determine whether it would be to the political advantage of the U. S. to beat the Soviets to the punch and release these shocking films of the "K" bomb explosions.

NEW RED LINE — Already, one member of the Kennedy cabinet is voicing strong opposition against the President taking this propaganda initiative.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is warning the President that release of the films would indirectly support an expected Communist propaganda drive to alarm world opinion against the alleged dangers of any further radioactive debris in the atmosphere.

He points out that Soviet diplomats are at work behind the scenes with the neutrals to bring pressure on this country to abide by a new voluntary moratorium. It is Rusk's contention that the series of Soviet tests were calculated to fill the air in the Northern Hemisphere for the next three years with as much radioactive fallout as public opinion outside the U.S. will consider tolerable.

In a separate report to the Joint Senate - House Atomic Committee, the Atomic Energy Commission estimates that the Soviets spent more than $300 million to put on their atomic "fear" show.

The AEC also reveals that the Soviets exploded their nuclear devices at a rate of better than one every other day since they began their tests on September 1. As of November 4, the U. S. had detected 39 nuclear explosions (31 were announced) in the current series. This brings to 115 the number of nuclear tests detected by the U.S. in the Soviet Union since the Soviets fired their first atomic bomb in September, 1949.

NEW LOOK — It is now virtually certain that the new House leadership is going to be made up of three "moderate liberal" Democrats.

House Majority Leader John McCormack, D., Mass., is scheduled to be elected in January to replace Speaker Sam Rayburn, who is suffering from an incurable cancer.

House Democratic Whip Carl Albert, D., Okla., who is vigorously supporting McCormack for the speakership, will be promoted to the House Majority leadership post.

Representative Hale Boggs, D., La., who is supporting McCormack and Albert, will be selected as the new Democratic whip.

That's the private report that Representative Boggs is giving in talks with other Democrat House members and friends in Washington.

Representative Boggs, who is a key member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, says that he does not believe that the White House will try to upset the selection of this leadership team.

When this new team takes over in January, you can expect a major change in the policy of no TV coverage of committee hearings in the House.

House Majority Leader McCormack favors relaxing of this restriction. He supports a policy of permitting each committee to decide whether their hearings should be televised. His only restriction will be that the hearings must be carried as public service programs and not sponsored.

The present policy as laid down by Speaker Rayburn bars all TV coverage of committee hearings.

LOOKING FORWARD — Glories of the Peace Corps will be a constant theme in official publicity. President Kennedy has sent word to all his Cabinet members to boost the corps in their speeches. He is unruffled by early embarrassments and wants officials of his administration to keep talking up the Corps to head off any congressional threats to its future . . . A tough, new bill in Congress, aimed at making patents on drugs harder to get, may be watered down. The U. S. Patent Office objects to some parts of the bill as is; but it does want some tightening of patent law on medicines and chemicals in general, and that could be the basis for a compromise bill. The bill is one of the results of Senator Estes Kefauver's probe of the cost of drugs. He claims that his investigation showed that high prices of drugs are due in some cases to abuse of the monopoly created by a patent. To keep such monopolies strictly limited, Kefauver's bill would (1) sharply limit the time of the inventor's monopoly to make and sell a drug; (2) impose rigid licensing provisions on patented drugs, (3) fix a ceiling on royalties to be charged for a patent license, and (4) restrict new patents to new prescription drugs which have a "greater therapeutic effect" — thus ruling out, for example, a patent on a new oral form of a drug already available in serum form.

Managing Debts

Treasury Wraps Up Last Giant Debt Operations Of 1961

At midnight Thursday night, the U. S. Treasury wrapped up the last of its giant debt operations of 1961 — involving a replacement of almost $7 billion maturing I.O.U.s paying 2½ per cent interest a year with three new Treasury obligations due in 1963, 1966 and 1974 and carrying coupons ranging from 3¼ to 3⅞ per cent.

It's unlikely that many of you reading this hold the old I.O.U.s or care about putting your nest-egg in the Treasury securities being issued to replace them. This deal is primarily of interest to banks, other institutional investors, wealthy individuals.

Nevertheless, the operation is of vital significance to all of us because it affects the stability of the dollars all of us earn and save, the control of inflation in our country, the confidence financial leaders of the free world have in the fiscal soundness of the United States.

Even though major buying of the new securities is still to come in the hours before midnight, indications are most of the holders of the old I.O.U.s will replace them and the Treasury won't have to dig into its money reserve to pay off investors demanding cash.

Why this is destined to be a successful deal and what it tells about the Treasury's attitudes the angles of broad interest and significance to us. Specifically . . .

. . . What the Treasury is doing is competing for buyers in an old-fashioned, orthodox, courageous way — meaning it's offering buyers a variety of "goods", it's pricing the goods attractively, it's not risking a failure by trying to save little amounts on the operation. For instance, it is selling three issues in three different maturity ranges although it could have offered only one issue. It has priced the issues far below the going market and has thereby compelled investors to take serious notice of their sale. It has forfeited the chance to save minor amounts on interest payments, has been generous instead.

This is a realistic, hard-headed approach to handling the debt and it has characterized every move of Treasury Secretary Dillon's debt management team. As a result, the Treasury has kept investors buying U. S. securities even when the buyers were sure the securities were heading lower in price. As a result, the Treasury has come through several rough squeezes in recent months in superb shape.

What the Treasury is doing second, is assuring the world's financial leaders that the United States is determined to manage our debt conservatively, to hold interest rates at a level high enough to prevent "hot money" flowing out in search of a larger return, to make sure the structure of our public debt doesn't encourage inflation. The offering of a 13-year bond priced to give buyers close to 4 per cent a year is a clear attempt to encourage banks and others to "lock up" their funds in longer - term U. S. securities. At the same time, the Treasury is actively maneuvering to maintain a firm floor under short - term interest rates so short - term investors stay home in securities. The central bankers of the West are acutely aware of what the Treasury is saying to them via its debt management actions now — and they approve.

What the Treasury is doing third, is getting itself set to tackle its massive debt operations of coming months, for even though the Treasury may not have to borrow additional new cash before this fiscal year ends next June, it'll be in the market almost continually to refinance I.O.U.s that will be maturing in multi-billion totals month after month.

The West's financial leaders are cooperating today to an extent never before believed possible to protect each other's currencies, to control the flows of hot money, to prevent money crises.

They're continuing to look to us and to our dollar for leadership and one key reason is the masterly handling of our public debt problems. Whatever may be said about the calibre of men at the top elsewhere in the Federal Government, in charge at the Treasury are real professionals -- plus

Varied Ideologies

Many Wonder Whether Communism And Socialism Are Different

Many are puzzled by the difference between socialism and communism and write inquiring whether there is really a difference. There are many forms of confusion arising from the dissociation of word from fact.

If, instead of using the words socialism and communism, we speak of Marxism, we come closer to the truth. Karl Marx, in association with Friedrich Engels, in 1848 wrote a pamphlet, "The Communist Manifesto," in which they attempted to recite concisely a theory of social development based on the evolution of mankind by historic forces.

"The history of all hitherto existing society is the history of class struggles.

"Freeman and slave, patrician and plebian, lord and serf, guildmaster and journeyman, in a word, oppressor and oppressed, stood in constant opposition to one another, carried on an uninterrupted, now hidden, now open fight, a fight that each time ended, either in a revolutionary reconstitution of society at large, or in the common ruin of the contending classes."

But "The Communist Manifesto" is not the entire story. Hegel, a German philosopher, was laying the bases for modern socialism; Bakunin was advocating a form of Anarchism; Ferdinand LaSalle propounded a form of socialism akin to the reformism of the "New Deal" and his ideas were accepted by Bismarck. Many ideas were being circulated at this time. As Karl Marx said: "Hitherto, it was the mission of philosophers to interpret the world; now, it is our business to change it."

The socialist movement can be traced back to the immediate aftermath of the French Revolution. If it is possible to have political equality, why not social and economic equality? Many attempts were made during the 1830's to effect these changes by mass demonstrations. In 1844, the "Society of the Democratic Friends of All Nations" was organized but it was difficult to do more than stir up a sentiment for socialism —that is, government ownership of the means of production and distribution and exchange.

Karl Marx was able to devote himself entirely to changing the world, not only by writing books and pamphlets but by organizing "The Workers' Educational Society" and similar organizations in European countries. Marx became a clearing house for these socialist organizations.

The "Communist League" was organized in 1847. It was for this association of socialist, reformist and other leftist groups that "The Communist Manifesto" was written. It was an error to assume that all of Marxism is stated in "The Communist Manifesto." Marx was a prolific writer on a myriad of subjects and to the student of socialism, some of his other writings are more important, but the "Manifesto" established a working class movement which abandoned the nationalism of the French Revolution and the anarchism of those who held that all government is evil.

It needs to be pointed out that many socialistic concepts were accepted by various European governments, particularly Prussia and other German states, the Scandinavian countries and Great Britain.

From many standpoints the reformist ideas of Marx and Engels were making great headway throughout the world. The changes were not systematic, but met immediate circumstances in certain countries. In 1903, the Russian Social Democratic party met in London. This meeting divided into two groups, the majority or Bolshevik group being led by Lenin. Most of those who attended this conference were refugees from Czarism who lived abroad. Lenin believed in the permanent revolution, in change as a necessity of historic development.

Bolshevism made no progress until the war of 1914-17, in which Russia was defeated. It was then possible for Lenin and his associates to seize power and to establish a Communist government, that is, one in which all democratic processes were abolished, in which the state was taken over by the Communist party which held the country in tutelage as a manifestation of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The essential difference between one form of socialism and another is a matter of speed. For instance one does not think of Theodore Roosevelt, Robert La Follette or William Jennings Bryan as Socialists; yet some of the reforms they advocated were definitely socialistic, as, for instance, the income tax. On the other hand, the speed of revolution and change, the abolition of all forms of democracy, the dictatorial authority of the state as manifest in all Soviet countries — this is called communism. But the father of all these movements was Karl Marx.

Texan Talks Turkey

When Ted Dealey, publisher of the Dallas Morning News, attended one of President Kennedy's chummy meetings with editors and publishers he didn't sound as if he had just finished a Dale Carnegie course on "How to Win Friends and Influence People" by sweet talk. He aimed a few solid verbal punches at the president and his administration.

President Kennedy has been gathering editors and publishers of newspapers about him at a series of luncheons, with the idea that mutual cultivation would do no harm. These little social affairs, made festive with wines and French cookery, proceeded pleasantly enough until the Texan, who ranks tall in the affairs of his state, appeared and started talking turkey.

When asked what he thought of the nation's top officials, Dealey said that ordinary opinion was that "you and your administration are weak sisters." He added that people were fed up with Khrushchev and were opposed to aid and comfort going his way from Washington.

Coming from Texas, where cowboys and others are high in the saddle, Dealey was unable to resist simile. "We need a man on horseback to lead this nation, he said, implying the need for firmness in international affairs.

Continuing, the Texan said directly to the president, "Many people in Texas and the southwest think you are riding Caroline's tricycle."

That was just about as faraway from kow-towing as anyone can get. The president's reply, if any, seemed to have been lost in the shuffle.

The admonition, however, may have had some effect. President Kennedy turned up that evening at the Washington International Horse Show.

At Turin, in the spring of 1861, Victor Emmanuel was proclaimed king of the first united Italian nation since the collapse of Rome. Five months earlier Emmanuel and Garibaldi had met at Teano near Naples and agreed to join their conquests.

Linsey-woolsey, the combination of linen and wool, anticipated by centuries the modern practice of blending fibers.

Enlarged Heart

Increase In Size Of Organ Usually Means Serious Trouble

From a reader in Miami, Fla., comes this little question with big implications: "Will you discuss enlarged heart? What causes it? What can be done for it?" — Mrs. S.

Answer: Discuss it, yes. But answer it in full, impossible in this limited space. However, I'll let you in on some pertinent facts. There are many others like you, who have heard the expression "enlarged heart" without knowing exactly what it means. Remember that this is a rule with but few exceptions: The enlarged heart is a sick heart.

The normal amount of muscle tissue in the heart increases for only one reason: to try to overcome some fault in the blood circulation system. Sometimes the first clue of a failing circulation is a routine X ray of the heart. A man goes in for his yearly physical examination and the doctor finds that the enlarged shadows on the film indicate that the patient's heart muscle has expanded. He then proceeds to discover the cause.

Frist, he carefully questions his patient. He is not surprised to hear the patient say: "Lately I have found myself short of breath" or "When I walk fast uphill or against the wind I have to stop because of pain across my chest and down my arm" or "I can't sleep flat in bed anymore; feel better on two or three pillows" or "I've been having indigestion I can't understand" or "I have a cough that hangs on but I'm sure I haven't had a chest cold."

These symptoms I have been enumerating (I might have added ankle swelling, extreme fatigue out of proportion to amount of work done) are indications of beginning heart failure. They don't necessarily come on as soon as the heart muscle begins enlarging. They may come on years later, when the muscle has enlarged so much it has reached its limit.

Now, when I see a patient with such symptoms, and physical, X-ray and electrocardiographic checkup show cardiac enlargement, the next — and most important — step is to discover the cause of it all. What's the trouble? Where's the trouble?

If the heart is enlarged in a youngster, the doctor wants to rule out the possibility of congenital heart disease or rheumatic heart disease. In congenital heart disease, there are dozens of possible malformations that can put strain on the heart and cause it to enlarge (like "holes" in the heart, extra chambers, narrowing of large blood vessels — called stenosis). And in rheumatic heart disease, in which not only is there infection in the heart muscle itself, but the heart valves have become deformed (for example, mitral stenosis causing back pressure because the value has become narrowed; or aortic insufficiency, in which the blood flows back through the valves due to a leak, causing the heart to work harder to pump the blood through the arteries of the body.)

All these extra loads make the heart enlarge ultimately. Other causes of enlargement? Arteriosclerosis. High blood pessure, if untreated. Thyroid disease. General infections like diptheria. Sometimes anemia causes heart enlargement. So does coronary artery disease.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, Nov. 11, the 315th day of the year with 50 more to follow in 1961. Today is Veterans Day.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1889, Washington became the 42nd state admitted to the Union.

In 1918, the first World War ended with the signing of an armistice between the Allied and central powers in a railway car in France.

In 1933, the first "great black blizzard" swept over the Great Plains leaving dust covered devastation and terror in its wake.

In 1957, Jamaica became the first British West Indian colony to achieve internal self government.

A thought for today: American writer William Woodward said: "The turning point of lives are not the great moments. The real crises are often concealed in occurrences so trivial in appearance that they pass unobserved."

Residents Offer $100 Reward In Dog Poisonings

An apparent recurrence late this week of pet poisoning in a north Monroe neighborhood along parts of Jasmine Street has prompted several residents there to pool their resources in offering a reward of $100 for the capture of the responsible person.

Spokesman for the group, Donn Kurtz, of 2304 Jasmine, indicated that another animal, a dog, died Thursday night under circumstances similar to those which claimed the lives in April of a total of nine dogs and cats in the same area.

He said the reward would be a standing offer and payable to anyone providing information leading to the capture of the poisoner. Kurtz added that Monroe Chief of Police James C. Kelly Jr. had been alerted to watch for a resurgence in the person's activities and had promised full cooperation.

A nearby veterinarian, Dr. Walter J. Ernst, was reported to have confirmed the presence of a toxic substance in the system of the latest victim.

Among those joining with Kurtz in offering the bounty are Nick Fontana, 2306 Jasmine, and John Salisbury of 2315 Jasmine.

Negroes Booked In 2 Burglaries By City Police

Monroe police Friday arrested two local Negroes and booked them in connection with separate cases of burglary involving the taking of a transistor radio and a payroll check for slightly more than $53.

Charged were 34 year old David Hunter, of 3007 Polk St., and Claude Edward Walker, 21, 1709 DeSiard.

Police said Hunter was picked up for taking an eight transistor radio from the front seat of a locked car belonging to Robert Daniels of Shreveport. The car was parked Thursday night on the lot of a local hotel where Hunter worked as attendant. While a search of his home did not produce the radio, officers said other evidence was recovered.

Walker reportedly was apprehended in connection with the November 3 burglary of Monroe Brick Builders at 2090 Grammont St. in which only the check was taken. Police said his arrest stemmed from an attempt to cash it soon thereafter at a local grocery store where the person to whom the check was made payable was known. Walker is reported to have left the check at the store and did not return.

Soviet Leaders Change Name Of Stalingrad

MOSCOW, Saturday (UPI) — The presidium of the Supreme Soviet, carrying out Premier Nikita Khrushchev's apparent decision to obliterate the name of Josef Stalin in Russian history, has renamed Stalingrad as "Volgograd," the newspaper Pravda announced Friday.

Pravda said the decision to make the change was "taken to grant the wishes and request of the staffs of industrial enterprises, construction projects, state farms, collective farms and offices and at the petition of public organizations in the region."

Stalingrad was named 36 years ago in honor of Stalin. The capital of the Stalingrad oblast (region) in the Russian republic, it is a thriving industrial, commercial and transportation center.

According to Pravda both the city and region will henceforth be known as Volgograd.

Before becoming Stalingrad it was known as Tsaritsyn — it lies at the mouth of the Tsaritsa River. It was renamed in 1925 in honor of Stalin's role in defending the city against the counter-revolutionary white army during the revolution.

It was the scene of one of the most decisive battles during World War II. The city held out against the attacks of Nazi forces headed by Field Marshal Friedrich Von Paulus in the winter of 1942-43.

Alcohol Level Is Down For Driving Cases

Monroe City Judge W. M. Harper released information Friday contained in an official report received by him, indicating a reduction of one half of one per cent in the alcoholic content necessary to constitute intoxication in a court of law.

He said the figure recommended by the American Medical Association for use in future cases has been reduced from .15 per cent to .10 per cent. The new rating deals with the analysis in blood tests taken from persons charged with operating motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Commenting on the ruling, Harper suggested, "The public can protect themselves against this by simply letting a non - drinking person do the driving or by going home in a taxi."

Parts of yesterday's notice read as follows:

"In 1939 and again in 1945 the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association approved the enactment of state legislation establishing .0.15 per cent by weight of alcohol in a person's blood as the point above which he will be presumed to be under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The recommended figure has now been reduced by the association to 0.10 per cent by weight of alcohol in a person's blood as the point to be accepted as prima facie evidence of alcoholic intoxication, recognizing that many individuals are under the influence in the 0.05 per cent to the 0.10 per cent range."

Expansion Set For Winnsboro Airport Facility

WINNSBORO (Special) — Bids to extend the runways at the Winnsboro Municipal Airport will be opened on November 27 by the Department of Public Works, according to Rep. Lantz Womack.

Womack said the bids called for the "furnishing of labor, materials and performing all work in strict accordance with the plans and specifications for the construction of the Winnsboro Municipal Airport."

A $60,000 bond issue for the purchase of a hanger and 34.46 acres of land as a site for the project was approved by property owners. The hangar and the land were sold to the town by businessman B. T. Lanier.

"The runways will have to be longer to take care of modern airplanes," said Mayor Robert F. Mulhearn.

Since the project will be financed by the Department of Public Works, a hard-surface runway will be constructed at no additional costs to local taypayers.

According to Womack, bids will be opened by the department at 1:30 p.m. at Baton Rouge on November 27. Hugh B. Myers, public works, will be chief engineer in charge of construction.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 11-11

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

'IRON EYES' ON WARPATH

Use Of 'Paleface' Indians Ires Actor

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Indian actor Iron Eyes Cody is on the warpath against the television industry using palefaces to play redskins.

He's almost mad enough to scalp the heads of all three networks and anybody else who happens along.

Donning his war bonnett, the stern faced iron eyes cast a cold glance at Hollywood and started looking for scalps.

Cody, a Cherokee indian who's been whooping it up for years around filmland's covered wagons, is a gentleman steeped in indian lore.

Iron Eyes came to Hollywood in 1924 and became a technical advisor to producers filming horse operas. He worked with the late Cecil B. De Mille in 11 of that director's pictures before turning to acting in 1947.

Recalling his days as a technical advisor, Iron Eyes said, "one time a Navajo rug got mixed up in a Sioux scene and I got panned for it."

Anybody who is concerned about Mrs. Smith's rugs getting mixed up with Mrs. Jones' has got to be a fiend on authenticity, and Iron Eyes fits into that category.

Iron Eyes was almost bloodshot as he seemingly wept rust over the plight of movieland's indians.

"Every white man wants to play indian role," said Iron Eyes, who appears on NBC - TV's Walt Disney production of "The Light in the Forest" Sunday night.

"There are a lot of good indian roles around now and Jeff Chandler really started something," he said, referring to the late actor who played Cochise in the movie "Broken Arrow."

Indian actors have had such a rough time lately in Hollywood that some have been playing Chinese Hawaiian roles, sans feathers of course.

"There aren't too many indian actors in town, only about 10 who can do something," Cody said. "There are also about 65 extras but they still all can't get enough work."

Despite the rocky road ahead for galloping movie indians, Iron Eyes is looking at the world through rose colored glasses when he surveys his own career.

"I just got lucky," said Cody. "I've signed an eight week contract to play a young Osage in "Black Gold" at Warner Brothers."

That should prove that even though the indians may no longer have the run of America's plains, they've still got a toot in Hollywood's tepee door.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTEBOOK: Shubert Alley is gabbing about the rumor that Carol Lawrence isn't completely happy with her Broadway-bound musical "Subways Are for Sleeping." (I assume everyone involved will deny, it, so save the telegrams, boys) . . . Brink of War department: While the bomb headlines are scaring you, the Navy appears quite relaxed. Lionel Hampton, his 18 - piece band and his vocalist will be paid a hefty sum to play a two - day clambake —on Nov. 14th and 15th — aboard the USS Forrestal, our biggest aircraft carrier, docked in Norfolk, Va. . . . Betty von Furstenberg slipped and fell down a whole flight of backstage stairs during a performance of "Mary, Mary" the other night, but she bore her injuries bravely. She got up and finished the third act, although she was bruised, scratched and bleeding.

Those very close to Ray Charles insist it s true that the singer will undergo a series of operations planned to restore his sight, and the doctors involved are extremely optimistic. If they're right, it will be one of the most dramatic stories in the history of show business . . . Anthony Quinn, who went to Europe to star in a film, didn't pay much attention to President Kennedy's injunction to citizens not to scatter U. S. dollars in foreign countries. Tony bought 75 paintings over there . . . One of Bing Crosby's best movies "Going My Way," is about to become a television series, and Revue, the producing firm, hopes to get Gene Kelly to play the Crosby role.

Comedian Dick Shawn was supposed to be on the bill with Rosemary Clooney at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, but now it seems he won't be. What's the story? . . . Greta Garbo, lunching at the Colony with Countess Christina Bernadotte (daughter - in , law of the King of Sweden) and Jacques Sarlie, displayed a healthy appetite. She ordered eggs Benedict and mousse au chocolat . . . Ingrid Bergman's almost-ex son-in-law, Clay Calloway, is showing more than a passing interest in a gorgeous young cook aboard his yacht, anchored at Sausilite, Calif. Those who've seen her (and sampled her cuisine) say they wouldn't blame him if he never came ashore.

Good news for migratory "Twist" fans: with jet - age speed, the dance craze has crossed the Atlantic. In London it's going strong at the Satire Club, and in Paris it's all over the Left Bank . . . Interesting "man in the street" reaction to the picture, "The Young Doctors": many of them get mad in the middle of the film because they've "already seen it on television." They think there should be a sign posted outside the theatre warning video watchers.

Champagne for breakfast? Kenny's Steak Pub includes a bottle per person with Sunday brunch. And if you're heading for the football game, they'll fill your thermos with coffee — also on the house . . . Rita Moreno and George Chakiris have been haunting El Morocco and when they get up to dance, watch out! Their brand of social dancing is almost as exciting as the choreography in "West Side Story." . . . And speaking of "West Side Story," Jerome Robbins was Natalie Wood's escort at "How To Succeed" the other night. Would ner lawyers care to make anything out of that?

Genevieve, on tour, is causing eyebrows to lift in more than polite surprise. It has nothing to do with her performance, it's just that her ex - husband is still in the act, and his present wife is traveling with the happy group as some kind of aide (Oh, well! They're French) . . . New Yorkers are gasping over the warm November weather, furriers and coat - makers are ready to slash their wrists, and even night club owners complain that the Summery temperatures hurt business, but the disc jockeys don't care. They've already started to play "White Christmas."

Everything wasn't as cheeful as usual during this week's Perry Como rehearsals, all because Perry thought Betty Hutton's hair do was unbecoming, and told her to hie herself to a hairdresser, and that put Betty in a bad mood. The truth is, the "hairdo" Perry didn't like was a wig Betty had made especially for her appearance on the Como show . . . Rosa Gabor, the belly - dancer at the Britania, has an interesting weekend beau — a state senator . . . Not one of the papers had the whole story on the robbery of that chauffeur for the Mali delegation to the United Nations. Actually, he was the victim of an old, old game. The whole record of his adventure is at the 28th Precinct. . . . It lookis like love with Jane Fonda and actor Andreas Voutsinas. He's accompanying her to Hollywood while she makes a movie and while he's away her brother Peter and his bride, Susan Brewer, will live in his apartment.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A BONELESS UPPER ARM

Disappearing bone disease means just that. The bone usually is fractured but instead of healing, it dissolves gradually, leaving a painless, flail extremity. The 33d such case was reported recently in the Journal of the American Medical association by Dr. J. M. Abell Jr. and Dr. Earl E. Badgley of Ann Arbor, Mich.

The first case was reported in 1838. A young man fell and fractured the midshaft of the bone in the upperright arm. Healing failed to occur and over the next 12 years the entire bone absorbed gradually and finally disappeared. The hand could be twisted twice around, giving the arm a rope - like appearance.

But the man was not incapaciated and maintained full strength in the arm. According to the report, he "could lift 100 pounds, rake, shovel, cut wood, and carry a large pail of water." He lived to be 70 and died of pneumonia. Autopsy revealed a boneless upper arm.

The more recent case reported by Abel and Badgley was a woman who fractured the same bone just above the elbow. The bones in this area began to dissolve and she was fitted with a brace to support the painless falil elbow.

The few known cases of disappearing bone disease usually followed a trivial accident. The involved part became progressively weaker until, months or years later, the flail - like limb could be twisted painlessly in all directions.

Can anything be done to prevent this condition? Probably not, but it is not a disabling as it sounds. Bone is replaced by scar tissue — aptly described as a fibrous ghost — that offers some support. Medicines are of no value in treatment but a new bone can be reconstructed thru surgery to fill the gap.

RIGID MUSCLES

T. B. J. writes: What is the treatment for tetanus (lockjaw)?

REPLY

It's not what you think. Stiffness is not due to alcohol but to spasm of the muscles of the body. The contractions are so severe the trunk, back, and extremities are as a board. he individual cannot walk or sit and assumes a posture like a wooden man. Treatment is not satisfactory altho drugs that relieve muscle spasm are helpful.

BLOOD SUGAR LEVEL

A. W. writes: Two years ago I had a blood sugar of 178 and was told I had a mild case of diabetes. Now my blood sugar is normal. Does this mean I have been cured of diabetes?

REPLY

No, and if you are cured the original diagnosis can be questioned. A blood sugar level of 178 often is associated with diabetes but tests should be repeated and correlated with the urinalysis before diagnosis is made.

ON THE ROCKS?

L. H. writes: When I take my lady friend out for a drink, she eats the ice from the glass. Isn't this much ice bad for her body?

REPLY

No, not even if the lady friend is a two fisted drinker. The heat of the body melts the ice. In addition, it is not one - tenth as irritating as the whisky. Perhaps she is hinting for something to eat.

WAKE UP HICCUPS

Mrs. F. writes: Why do I awaken every morning with hiccups?

REPLY

This is most unusual and you should see your physician. Something may be irritating the diaphragm or its nerve, such as a diaphragmatic hernic or tumor.

SMOKING AND CRAMPING

W. R. S. writes: Does smoking aggravate a spastic colon?

REPLY

Too many cigarets may over stimulate the bowel and produce cramping.

OF WEINGARTEN'S

Pair Sentenced In Armed Theft

Judge Jesse Heard sentenced the Weingarten robbers to 15 years in prison Friday in Fourth District Court.

Sentencing came for Glenn W. Dunlap and Charlie Davis, six months after the armed robbery of the Louisville Avenue supermarket, which since has gone out of business here.

Both pled guilty to the offense here yesterday. The terms will run concurrently with other 15-year sentences the pair are serving from offenses in other parishes.

Each also drew a concurrent five-year term on a simple burglary charge resulting from their break-in at the store before employees arrived.

Two other men were sentenced to terms in the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola Friday.

Milton Eugene Capt, 21, 311 S. Second St., face a five-year term, concurrent on each of two charges, theft of an automobile and aggravated battery. A jury convicted him of the theft earlier this week following trial in Fourth District Court. He pled guilty to the aggravated battery charge yesterday.

Jerry Robert, 26, 401 Catalpa St., was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary on a simple burglary charge.

Dunlap, 33, of Marksville, and Davis, a 26-year-old Pasadena, Texas man, were returned to Monroe from Angola where they are serving out other terms. Davis had been captured in New Orleans and charged with a hold-up there. Dunlap surrendered quietly near his home.

They took approximately $10,000 from Weingarten on Saturday, May 6. Both broke into the building, failed to open the safe, masked themselves with nylon stockings and waited for employees to arrive.

They held the manager, James Patterson, custodian Mrs. Carrie Ann Rogers, a salesman and six employees at gunpoint, forced them to open the safe and took Mrs. Rogers' car for a get-away, abandoning it two blocks away.

In other court action, Sammie F. Foster, 28, 903 Polk St., received suspended two-year prison terms on each of two counts of theft and was placed on probation. He was charged with theft of scrap material worth $22.50 and copper worth $90.51.

Willie Spear, 26, Negro, 1106 Louise Ann, pled guilty and was remanded for sentencing on a simple burglary charge.

Trial for William Dunatell, West Monroe man charged with theft of a dog, was postponed without date when one of the state's witnesses failed to appear in court.

Three men pled innocent, and trials were scheduled.

Edward V. Hilburn, 39, Route 1, West Monroe, charged with aggravated battery, trial February 5.

Brooks Beal Crawford, 48, no permanent address, charged with simple burglary, trial February 7.

Lezy Price, 801 Wood St., West Monroe, charged with two counts of forgery, trial February 20.

TO GET ELECTRICITY

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — Hundreds of peasants will soon have electricity for the first time. A diesel generator was given them by President Kennedy, who heard of their plight after his brother Edward visited the area several months ago.

Americanism Program Goes To Television

Monroe's Chamber of Commerce Americanism Program moves into the media of television starting next week, when the film "Communist Encirclement" is shown November 16.

The program will be televised at 9:30 p.m. over a local station.

Earlier on the same night, the third of three Freedom Forums slated for next week will take place, at Barkdull Faulk school's P.T.A. parents' night.

November 13 will see a review of the Americanism program before the parish Dental Association, meeting at the Paragon club and on the following night the American Petroleum Institute will view a Freedom Forum at the same location.

"Know Your America Week" slated November 19-25, will include three TV programs on Nov. 20, 22 and 24. Jim Williams, C of C manager, will discuss Americanism on "The Road Ahead" and the "Structure of the American Way of Life" on the first two days.

Garland Shell, C of C president, will sum up the week with the program "Activities in Americanism" on Nov. 24.

W. E. Whetstone, chairman of the Chamber's legislative committee and Minute Men Brigade, announced Friday that December 4 will be the formal kickoff date for a 13-week "American Adventure Series" on TV.

"Through the cooperation of local schools, this series," he said, "will be a recommended look-in education program designed to give students a greater appreciation of the American Way of Life."

Dr. Hunter Addresses CC Meeting

WINNSBORO (Special) — Dr. A. Hunter, president elect of LSU, was special guest speaker at a luncheon held in his honor here Friday. The luncheon was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. It was held in the local BSW Hall and was attended by 112 agricultural, education, civic, business, and legislative leaders of northeast Louisiana.

Franklin Parish Rep. Lantz Womack who was introduced by Chamber President C. L. Moore Jr., introduced Dr. Hunter and other guest. Dr. Hunter said "we are living today in a time of tension, a time of uncertainty, and a time of strained relations between the nations of the earth.

"We are living in a period representing two ways of life. The way of the communist and the way of freedom. Freedom loving nations of the earth and America have reached a time of decision.

"We have the choice of two roads. One road leads to hardship and steadfastness of purposes which guided the founding fathers of our democracy nearly 20 years ago. The other road, is the road of ease and acceptance, and a road which far too many Americans are taking today.

"There is no third road for the gauntlet has been thrown. Our modern world is not merely faced with the problem of communists. It is faced with the problem of a large and powerful nation with all the implements of atomic nuclear science which has as its sole objective the conquest of the world.

"The survival of this nation and of the free world depends upon a growing supply of trained man power and scientific information. Our colleges and universities must make room for and provide higher education of top quality for larger numbers of students than we dared dream of a few short years ago.

"Enrollment will rise by 70 per cent in this decade and our educational institutions will require more financial support. Money spent on education is not an expense. It is an investment that pays dividends for a life time."

Dr. Hunter said that LSU needed the assistance and cooperation of all the people of Louisiana.

U.S. Opposes Nuclear Plan Before U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States expressed its opposition Friday to a proposal that would outlaw nuclear weapons without mentioning conventional armaments.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean told the General Assembly's Main Political Committee that the resolution sponsored by 11 Asian and African nations neglects the principle of self-defense reserved to all states in the United Nations charter.

He said the United States agrees with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that effective disarmament is the most effective means of peace. But he added that the 11-nation resolution singles out only nuclear weapons to be outlawed while permitting conventional arms that could be used for attack.

"We submit that until a peaceful world is established with appropriate machinery for settling all disputes, no state can abrogate the right of self-defense."

The committee had hope to reach a vote Friday on the 11-nation measure and another calling for a nuclear-free Africa. But several amendments were submitted, and the committee voted to adjourn until Monday to permit consultations on the amendments.

Dean said his delegation believes that any use of armed force whatsoever is contrary to the U.N. charter and should not be sanctioned directly or indirectly by a declaration containing language devoted exclusively to a particular weapon.

He said all continents under a plan of general and complete disarmament should become denuclearized completely.

The main political committee pushed toward a vote on the "ban the bomb" resolution and another 13-nation proposal that would declare the continent of Africa a nuclear free area.

FOR MOTHER OF NINE

Move To Governor Mansion Problem

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — When you have nine children, you can't just pick up and move into any old place. Not even if it's the governor's mansion.

That's why Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, who's expecting a 10th child next spring, hasn't made up her mind about living at Morven, the New Jersey governor's residence, after her husband is inaugurated in January as successor to retiring Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

"There are nine bedrooms, so sleeping space is adequate," brunette Betty Hughes ticked off Friday. "But there's no room geared for a playroom.

"The house is lovely. But the Meyners are the first to live in it, and there never have been any children there. So I don't know how it would work out.

"I don't like to waste my worries, so I didn't think about it until the election was over. Now I'll try to decide on this trip."

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes left Friday on a Caribbean cruise. On the return trip they'll stop off at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the seven younger children, accompanied by their grandmother, will join them Nov. 22 for a long Thanksgiving weekend.

"Dick really hasn't seen the kids since he started campaigning in February. And once he gets back, things will close in again," she mused.

Mrs. Hughes was up until 3 Friday morning writing checks—"I like to get bills paid by the 10th"—and lining up what the children will need in her absence, and replying both to election congratulations and sympathy messages. Hughes' 85-year-old father died Sunday.

The Hughes live in a three-story house with a huge basement playroom in which each youngster has his own locker. The house is Georgian Colonial "but the decor is Hughes-Murphy-Sullivan. Some furniture is his, some mine, some was added for economy. Life is too short to worry about matching periods in furniture."

Mrs. Hughes, born Sullivan, was a young widow with three small boys when she met Hughes, a widower with four children. Her husband, Air Force Capt. William M. Murphy, was killed in a crash in 1951.

They were out trick-or-treating with the children Halloween night, 1954, and ended up at the home of a mutual friend.

"We were married six months later. I was in the big league overnight. The minute I said 'I do' I was the mother of a big family."

Since then they've added two youngsters. They hope fervently the newcomer is a girl, because the family stands now at two girls, seven boys.

It will be set up at Cambridge, Mass., on the campus of Harvard University, of which Kennedy is a graduate. Like the three existing presidential library-museums, it will be built with private funds but will be operated by the National Archives of the federal government.

Transatlantic Liner Sails On Farewell Trip

NEW YORK (AP)—The French liner Liberte, once proud ship of the North Atlantic, sailed from New York Friday for the last time as a transatlantic passenger liner. She was given a sentimental, gallic adieu.

"She's just a tired old lady who soon won't be able to make the grade," said a line spokesman. "Sure, she's still a beauty and she's just as luxurious as she was the day she took to sea, but she just doesn't have the zing in her engine room any more."

"To replace her engines and other machinery would cost more than it would be worth," he said.

So, after 31 years, the Liberte vanished down the bay, eventually to join in oblivion such of her French sisters as the Normandie and the Ile de France.

PASSENGERS UNHARMED

Hijackers Seize Portugal Plane

TANGIER, Morocco (UPI) — Armed revolutionaries hijacked a Portuguese airliner over Lisbon Friday and bombarded the capital city with anti-government leaflets in the name of Henrique Galvao, the rebel leader who seized the luxury liner Santa Maria last January. Then they forced the plane to fly to Tangier.

At least five Americans were reported among the 25 to 30 passengers aboard the Constellation airliner. Four disembarked in Tangier and one other flew back to Lisbon. None of the passengers was harmed.

The rebel band boarded the Portuguese TAP Super Constellation at Casablanca, seized it over Lisbon and then forced the pilot at gunpoint to fly to Tangier where they asked for political asylum. Galvao flew up from Casablanca to sit in on the police questioning of the hijackers.

The Galvao group is dedicated to the overthrow of Portuguese Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, whose 130 candidates are unopposed in Sunday's parliamentary elections. All opposition candidates withdrew in protest this week against lack of political freedom in Portugal.

The hijacking came while the airline pilot, Capt. Jose Marcelino was talking by radio with the Lisbon airport control tower, getting landing instructions. Their conversation ceased abruptly and the pilot said later he was forced to fly to Tangier.

J. G. Reinhardt, Seattle, Wash., said he noticed that things were "abnormal" aboard the plane and queried the hostess. She told him to remain calm but whispered "we seem to be having another Santa Maria affair."

"Everything was normal until about 15 minutes from arrival time in Lisbon," Reinhardt said. "Then I noticed several passengers walking to and from their seats to the pilots' compartment. They were carrying bundles of some kind.

"I also noticed the plane seemed to be circling rather too frequently. I asked the hostess what was going on and she replied that apparently we were having another Santa Maria affair. She asked us to remain calm and everything would be okay again eventually."

Reinhardt said he did not see any guns.

The passengers disembarking at Tangier were ushered by airline and airport officials into the customs and immigration rooms at the airport terminal. The six revolutionaries were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Galvao, 65, was present at the questioning. Galvao attained fame on Jan. 22 when he and 24 Portuguese and Spaniards helped by six crewmen seized the 20-906-ton Portuguese liner Santa Maria in the Spanish Main and kept its 607 passengers and 360 crew members prisoner for days.

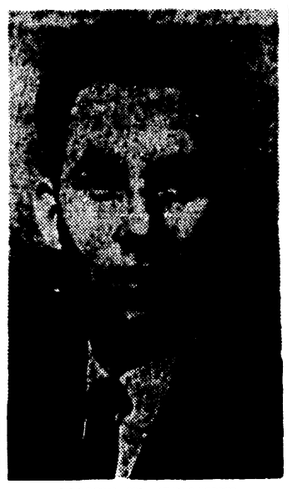
Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. announced Friday plans for continuation through part of this weekend of a parking ban on DeSiard Street.

No parking will be allowed along Monroe's main artery at anytime during the day Sunday while workmen complete an overlay job in the resurfacing of the thoroughfare. The ban, he said, may extend into Sunday night or early Monday morning, and asked the full cooperation of local motorists.

Following the overlay, police maintenance department workers will repaint walk lanes, no parking areas and loading zones.



JAMES W. BEAVER

Alumni Role In Northeast Growth Cited

James W. Beaver, newly - elected president of the Northeast Louisiana State College Alumni Association, of Monroe said yesterday the association can "play a vital role in the growth of the college."

"As president of the association, I hope to present a program to the assocation that will be of great benefit to our college, one that all of us should be proud of," Beaver stated.

A 29 - year - old native of Phillips, Tex., Beaver said two projects of "utmost importance" to the association was the establishment of parish chapters and the creation of a fund - raising campaign.

"GREAT HELP"

"Northeast has hundreds of graduates that can be a great help to the college," he explained. "That's why it's important for us to organize our alumni and raise funds for our program."

Beaver, a 1956 graduate of Northeast, said he thought Northeast had a "bright future," explaining that the college's future was a challenge to the association.

"The alumni should be proud of Northeast and work toward its further growth," he stated.

Beaver, who is in the mortgage loan business here, was elected president last Saturday at the association's annual meeting. A West Monroe attorney, Charles Traylor II was elected vice - president.

Active in civic activities in Monroe, Beaver is married and is the father of two children.

He is a member of the Parkview Baptist Church, Jaycees, Northeast Louisiana Home Builders Association, Mortgage Bankers Association and the Masonic Lodge.

Signs Ordered Replaced In Railroad Stations

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — A Rapides Parish District Judge yesterday ordered two Alexandria railroad stations to replace signs segregating Negro and white facilities at the Alexandria terminal.

Judge Walter Hunter signed the order after Dist. Atty. Jean Pharis filed suit in Ninth Judicial District Court.

The order was prompted after Alexandria police notified the District Attorney's office that the signs had been removed. The restraining order forces the railroads to comply with state law and disregard Interstate Commerce Commission regulations which called for the removal of segregation signs.

Continental Southern Trailways Bus Co. is already under a similar court order here. A hearing was scheduled in the bus case today but has been continued for ten days.

Hunter scheduled a hearing on the train terminal order for Friday of next week.

Docket Light In Monroe Court

A 47 - year - old Monroe man, Willard Jefferson Head, of 1122 Bailey St., drew a fine of $425 or seven months confinement in municipal court Friday for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. Handing down the conviction was City Judge W. M. Harper.

Heading the docket in other relatively light activity, Negro James Williams, 56, of 701 Pine St., was fined $350 or seven months for the illegal use of a weapon. A $25 bond on charges of public drunkenness was forfeited by a 45 year old Columbia man, Willard A. Lavely.

A case of vagrancy against 40 year old Virginia S. Wroten, 105½ S. 2nd was nolle prossed.

Communist Party Expels Ex-Minister

VIENNA (UPI) — Former Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov, under bitter attack from Premier Nikita Khrushchev, has been expelled from the Communist party and ousted from his Soviet government post here, it was reliably reported Friday.

One Austrian police official said it appeared the 71-year-old veteran Bolshevik, chief Soviet delegate to the International Atomic Energy Agency here, was under virtual house arrest. Molotov was taken to the Soviet Embassy early Friday and remained there throughout the day.

IAEA officials said the report of Molotov's expulsion and dismissal came from well-informed sources.

The action had been expected since Khrushchev's denunciation of Molotov at the 22nd party congress last month. He accused him of clinging to tough Stalinist policies, advocating war with the West, and having plotted for Khrushchev's removal.

Under Communist party rules, it is the party cell — primary unit of the party structure — that takes the actual expulsion action.

One member of the cell, who could not be identified, said the reports of the expulsion were doubless true.

"We could forgive him everything but could not forget the people he murdered," the cell member said.

Agency officials said no word on Molotov's dismissal was expected until a successor is named. Molotov has headed the Soviet delegation to the agency since August, 1960. "There are all kinds of indications" he has been removed officials said.

Molotov was the Soviet official closest to Stalin for the 30 years of his regime. Under Stalin he was Soviet premier from 1930 to 1941, when Stalin took over the post in addition to his party

Negro Gets Death Stay

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — U. S. District Judge Edwin F. Hunter yesterday ordered a stay of execution for convicted Negro rapist Lester Newton.

Newton was scheduled to die in the electric chair at Angola November 17.

Hunter heard evidence on Newton's application for a writ of habeaus corpus and issued the stay order. "It would be a mockery of justice to execute before the disposition of this motion."

Hunter gave attorneys 40 days in which to file briefs and answers in the case.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Newton is seeking a new trial based on claims that his constitutional rights were violated. Specifically, he charges that he was:

1. Not accorded the right of a fair and impartial trial by a fair and impartial jury because one of the jurors had expressed a preconceived opinion of his guilt prior to his trial.

2. He was not afforded the right of compulsory process because his attorney was not ordered to testify during the trial.

3. He was subjected to unreasonable search and seizure.

4. The Grand Jury indictment under which he was prosecuted was invalid because of an unauthorized person was in the Grand Jury room during part of the investigation.

Rapides Parish Deputy Clerk of Court Mrs. Vergie Middleton testified today that she did take part of the Grand Jury testimony during the Newton case.

Similar testimony by Mrs. Middleton earlier resulted in dismissal of 19 charges against Sheriff Grady L. Kelley Jr.

Camille F. Gravel, who represents both Newton and Kelley, attempted to enter part of the Kelley case records as evidence, but Hunter sustained objections of Dist. Atty. Jean Pharis and State Ass't. Atty. Gen. Teddy W. Airhart.

Fairfield 70 Retains Lead At Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Don Fairfield, a cool customer from Casey, Ill., clutched a two-stroke edge at the halfway point in the $20,000 Beaumont International Golf Tournament Friday with a steady one-under 70 and 36-hole aggregate of 136.

Troubled with par 3 holes all day, Fairfield finished strongly for a second sub-par effort to remain in front of Jay Hebert of Miami, Fla., and Bob Bosburg of Portland, Ore., who chased him to a blistering 66 in Thursday's opening round.

Hebert and Rosburg missed opportunities to either tie Fairfield or gain at least one stroke with sub-standard play on one hole. Hebert reached No. 17 3-under-par but hit a trap, overshot the green on his recovery and then missed a 6 foot putt for a double bogey 5.

Rosburg was equally dismayed on No. 6, a par 5 535-yard hole. He was trapped to the left of the green, barely reached the fringe with his blast, and then three-putted for a 7.

Situation Ripe For Upset In International

By GEORGE BOWEN

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The situation is right Saturday for the biggest upset of 10 international horse races with the U.S. duo of Kelso and T.V. Lark as the targets.

The pair rate as the most overwhelming favorites ever entered in the $100,000 International which has been noted for its surprises. Post time is 3:45 p.m., EST.

Practically none of the experts find any of the six foreign horses worthy on paper of posing much of a threat to Kelso and T.V. Lark.

Accorded the most respect is Russia's Zabeg who finished a highly creditable third last year in the 1½ mile grass race. He'll have a running mate in Irtysch.

France's Misti and Ireland's Sail Cheol are being dismissed as too young and too little. Both are 3-year-olds and in addition Sail Cheol is a filly.

The U.S. and Russian pairs are all 4-year-old males. The other representatives, Venezuela's Prenupcial and Denmark's Wonderboy are 5-year-olds.

Prenupcial may be the dark horse of the field. Six years ago, El Chama and Prendase came up from Venezuela and finished 1-2.

Fair Park Defeats Rebels Of West Monroe 27 To 18

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Fair Parks' Indians ambushed West Monroe in State Fair Stadium Friday night, dropping the Confederates 27-18 and abolishing their hopes in 1-AAA.

The victory was the third in a row for Coach Roy Wilson's Tribe and knocked the Rebel out of a tie with Bossier and Byrd, both Friday night winners.

All the West Monroe defeats in the district have come at hands of Shreveport and Bossier City clubs.

Fair Park turned in one of its best offensive showings of the year, rushing for 218 yards on the ground and adding 44 in the air. West Monroe had 175 rushing and an additional 72 via the overhead route.

Tribe fullback Allen Benoit was the contest's big gamer picking up 113 yards in 13 carries. Bobby Bricke, the West Monroe fullback, was tops for the losers with 63 in carries.

The victory gave Fair Park a 4-5 season mark and a 2-3 district record.

West Monroe is now 3-3 in the district and 5-4 for the season.

Fair Park scored in whirlwind fashion in the early seconds and turned around to add insult to injury to take a 13-0 lead.

An onsides kick caught the visitors unaware and set up the first Tribe score with 1:14 gone in the game. The Indians recovered the loose kick on the Fair Park 49 and scored in four plays.

David Worthington circled end for 14-yards and the touchdown.

On the following kickoff David Parker recovered another onsides kick on the Rebel 38 and Benoit climaxed a drive of three plays with a one-yard touchdown dive.

West Monroe picked up its first score early in the second stanza. Reggie Pleasant capped a 63-yard drive when he plunged in from the two.

Halfback Steve Prior fired right back, just three plays later, scoring on a 59-yard jaunt for the Indians.

The Rebels then moved 52 yards in 10 plays to climax the wild first half with their 12th point.

Fred Newton flipped 15 yards to Paul Hobgood for the score after a beautiful 25-yard pass was nullified back a backfield in motion penalty against the Rebs.

The second half produced two scores.

Fair Park moved 70 yards early in the quarter with Jerry Lindsey going the last 15 for the marker.

West Monroe got its final score on a 41-yard drive after an exchange of punts.

The Rebels moved the distance in four plays with Newton firing to Woody Woodcock for a 3-yard aerial gain. Woodcock then plunged the last two yards for the score.

All West Monroe's extra point trys failed while Link Carpenter was converting after the first, third and fourth for the Indian markers.

Indians Encounter Rebels In Last '61 Home Game

Northeast State makes its last appearance of the season in Brown Stadium tonight when Jack Rowan's Indians play host to one of Texas' top small college independents, Arlington State, at 8 p.m.

The Indians end their season next week at Ruston against Louisiana Tech.

Arlington and Northeast meet in the rubber game of their short series. The Tribe whipped Arlington, 26-21, in Monroe two years ago while the Rebels copped a 7-6 verdict at Arlington last winter.

To win, Northeast will have to stop Arlington's star quarterback, speedy Alley Anz. Anz, who passes well but prefers to run, is his teams total offense leader with 422 yards, 304 rushing and 118 passes. His rushing total leads the team while his passing yardage is second on the team to Douglas Wilson. Anz has hit on 10 of 16 passes.

The rest of the Arlington team, like Anz, gains most of its yardage on the ground. The club, paced by Anz, fullback Charlie Key and halfback Freddie Arnold, has run for 1674 yards this season and picked up only 419 passing.

The Rebels are 5-3 for the season and have beaten two teams Northeast has played. The common opponents, Southwestern and McNeese, lost 26-0 and 22-19 decisions, respectively, to Arlington. Northeast split with the pair, falling to McNeese by a 7-0 count and beating Southwestern, 27-20.

Northeast, 3-5 for the campaign, has also been a ground team. The Tribesmen have picked up 1703 yards rushing and passed for 304. Willie Ragan of Northeast will be the leading rusher in the game for either club. The 180-pound sophomore fullback from Monroe has gained 378 yards this season, second highest total in the Gulf States Conference. Slowed by an ankle injury this week, he may not start, but should see action.

Other standout runners this year for the Tribe have been quarterbacks Don Wattigny and Ronnie Myrick, both big gainers around the ends, and halfbacks Ken Newton and Al Ott. Newton, probably the team's best broken field runner, has accounted for 213 yards and linebuster Ott, a distant relative of late baseball great Mel Ott, has gained 185.

Devone Payne, who may start at the fullback slot, has been the club's most effective runner the past two games. He picked up 99 yards against Southwestern two weeks ago.

Tackle Ross Nolan, guards Terry Brunet and Larry Rambin and end Wendell Drost have been defensive standouts for Northeast this season while the Arlington forward wall will feature a big man with a big name, 245-pound Glenn Throckmorton, and tough Heinie Pate, both tackles.

Both teams will go into the game with several players sidelined or slowed by injury or illness. Regular Northeast center Bob Tatum is definitely out with an injured knee, as are end Bruce Couch and guard Scotty Adams of Arlington. Tackle Jim LaCoste of Northesat has been ill with the flu and Ragan, tackle Kirby Des-Ormeaux and halfback Donnie Brunson have injuries.

BILLY FOSTER is set to start at tackle Saturday night when Northeast State entertains Arlington State. A two-year letterman at guard, the 230 - pound Foster has played guard, center and tackle for the Indians this season. He played prep football at Tallulah.

LSU Risks Rating Against Tar Heels

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Bowl-conscious Louisiana State risks its national ranking today against North Carolina's twice-beaten football team.

The game wil be regionally televised by ABC, with kickoff at 2 p.m., EST.

Both hold down second place in their respective conferences, LSU in the Southeastern and North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast.

The visiting Tigers are streaking along on a six-game winning spree after an opening game loss to Rice. They upended previously unbeaten Mississippi last week and moved into fourth place in The Associated Press rankings.

North Carolina's Tar Heels improved their record to 4-2 with a 22-21 victory over Tennessee as quarterback Ray Farris threw a 28-yard touchdown pass and followed with another pass for two points with 15 seconds to play.

Both shut out South Carolina, their only common opponent, on successive weeks last month. LSU walloped the Gamecocks 42-0 and the following week North Carolina blanked them 17-0.

LSU and North Carolina have met in football only twice before, splitting a pair of games in 1948-49.

Southeastern Leads GSC In Total Offense

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Southeastern Louisiana college's Lions are riding the crest of the wave in the 1961 Gulf States conference football race, and the Lions also head the list in team offense.

Coach Stan Galloway's undefeated and untied Lions have averaged 298 yards per game for their eight games to date. The Lions have been primarily a running team, and Southeastern ball carriers have rolled up 1,939 yards rushing.

The passing attack has added 445 more, for a total of 2,384.

In second place in total offense is McNeese, the team the Lions are to tackle this weekend. McNeese has an average of 277.7 yards for seven games.

The Cowboys have rolled up 1,025 yards afoot and added 919 yards in the air. For the first time in several seasons, McNeese has built a dangerous passing attack. The Pokes have scored via the air on 11 occasions this season.

Northeast's Indians have the best rushing game to date, with an average of 4.6 yards per carry for 370 rushes with the ball. Southeastern is second in this category, with a 4.4 average.

Louisiana Tech leads the conference in the other two team offense categories—forward passing and punting. The Bulldogs have completed 87 of 134 passes for 927 yards, while the Bulldog punting game has notched a fancy 40.6-yard average for 41 punts.

Here are figures for each of the six conference members for all offensive categories.

Alexandria Cuts TV Plans For USL-NSC Game

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Plans to pick up the telecast of the University of Southwestern Louisiana - Northwestern State college football game today from station KLFY-TV, Channel 10, Lafayette, were abandoned Wednesday by station KALB-TV, Channel 5, Alexandria.

Technical difficulties encountered in arranging for the pick up from Lafayette would have required special equipment to be transported to Lafayette from New Orleans at a prohibitive cost and it was necessary to cancel the telecast, according to KALB-TV officials.

Eiland To Race Fred Norris In Distance Meet

Northeast State's distance ace Don "Buddy" Eiland who was beaten by an Englishman in last year's Gulf States Conference cross country meet, faces another runner from Great Britain tonight in Lafayette.

Eiland, beaten by McNeese's 39-year-old wonder from England, Fred Norris, in the GSC run last fall, meets Southwestern's star freshman, Malcolm Robinson of London, in a distance meet between the halves of the Northwestern - Southwestern game Saturday. The run, along with the football game, is scheduled to be televised by Lafayette and Alexandria stations.

Northeast and Southwestern are the only teams slated to compete in the meet, third of the season for Northeast. Northeast, defending GSC champion, has defeated Louisiana Tech and lost to Mississippi State.

Robinson has run 3.2 miles in 15:03 this season while Eiland, GSC record holder in the mile, has run three miles in 15:07. Eiland, whose home is Shreveport, won the meet with Louisiana Tech, run over a course 60 yards short of four miles, with a 19:14 clocking.

Other members of Coach Bob Groseclose's Northeast team set to compete in the meet are Bill Frye of Golden, Colo.; George Abbott of Jonesboro; Bill White of Dodson; Bob Bryant of Monroe, John Baker of Jennings; and Donald Hankins of Oak Grove.

Next week Northeast meets Louisiana Tech again in Ruston on Friday.

STILL IN 1-AAA FIGHT

Bossier Blanks Ouachita 20-0 To Stay In Running

Bossier City parlayed the slick running of halfback Rogers Reinowski with the passing and faking magic of quarterback Ray Shewmake to whip Ouachita High 20-0 and stay in the thick of the 1-AAA here last night.

Bossier's win gave the Bearkats a 3-2 conference mark and put them in position to tie Woodlawn for first if they defeat the Knights next week. Woodlawn, idle from district competition this weekend is 3-1 in 1-AAA.

Total Yardage	172	266

For Reinowski, a 195 - pound right halfback it was a night of personal triumph. Though he did not score the big ball toter set up one touchdown on a 44 yard run and accounted for 120-yards on 19 carries.

Shewmake, who scored once, was second with 26-yards on nine tries, but his big contribution was his consistently good ball handling, plus a couple of fakes that had Ouachita bumfuzzled and resulted in crucial yardage when the going was rough.

He also completed four of eight attempts for 39 yards, including a 15-yard scoring aerial.

Bossier scored the first time it got the ball, after blunting a Lion drive at the Bearkat 40 with a fumble recovery.

It took 14 plays to go the route and fullback Charlie Glover got the one that counted, blasting over from a yard out.

Center Sonny Spataro toed the point and Bossier led with 2:30 left in the first quarter.

The Bearkats stopped Ouachita cold again and came right back, this time going 65 yards in 12 plays.

This time Shewmake sneaked up the middle from the one-yard line for the score. Spataro's kick was no good, giving Bossier a 13-0 lead with 6:00 to go before intermission.

Bossier's last touchdown came the easy way.

With Ouachita operating from a new spread or "shotgun" formation halfback Lee Harvill intercepted a Dennis Warner aerial at the Bossier 34.

Two plays later Reinowski cut loose on his beautiful 44-yard scamper to carry the ball to Ouachita's 15. Before the Lions could recover, Shewmake spotted end Dick Reding waiting all alone in the end zone and obligingly flipped him the skin.

Shewmake turned in a repeat on the PAT, connecting with Harvill for the point and Bossier's 20-0 margin.

This last pointage came with 15 seconds left in the second.

The second half was mostly a Lion affair. Ouachita halted one Bossier drive on the six-yard line early in the fourth quarter, then set sail on the longest march of the night.

Ironically the Lions did not score. But they did punch 96 yards though a Bossier defense had barely been able to scratch before.

The drive enabled Ouachita to run 23 consecutive plays and control the ball virtually all the final period.

The tragedy occurred on the Bossier two-foot line with 40 seconds to play and a fourth down situation for Ouachita.

After calling time to get the play the Lions sent Butch Ogilesbee, playing fullback for Bubba Via this game, to his left. Ogilesbee tried to cut up field, slipped and went to his knees and Ouachita was doomed to a whitewash.

Ouachita took the opening kickoff at its 30 and unleashed a sharp offensive attack to sweep down to Bossier City's 40-yard line in eight plays before the Bearkats recovered a fumble to kill the move.

A 22-yard pass from Warner to end Jack Trimble kept the drive alive at midfield, while a good ground operation got the rest.

The Bearkats had trouble moving the ball at first, but aided by two five-yard penalties were able to keep the skin until their running game got in gear. Once in high, they rolled with apparent ease and used 14 plays to move 60 yards for the first score.

Glover bucked the final yard and Sonny Spataro kicked the point to put Bossier out front with 2:30 left in the first quarter.

A 10-yard pass from Shewmake to Glover, a 10-yard run by Reinowski and a seven-yard sneak by Shemake were the best gainers in the drive.

Bossier got the ball again after Ouachita failed to move following the kickoff and the Bearkats went 65 yards in 12 plays for score number two.

Shewmake got this one on a one-yard sneak with 6:00 left in the half. The kick for point-after failed.

Bossier booted out of the end zone on the kickoff and when Ouachita took over at the twenty the Lions came up with a new spread formation.

It worked one the first play. Warner hit Gerson at the 34-yard line. But on second down the pass was incomplete and on third down Glover intercepted for Bossier at the Lion 46.

Five plays got to Ouachita's 21 but here two brilliant defensive plays thwarted Bossier, at least temporarily.

First Wincel Bass dumped Shewmake back to the 44 for a 14-yard loss, then James Richardson smeared Shewmake to the 48 to halt the drive.

Ouachita started a second, good, but short-lived drive here, going to Bossier's 38 on four passing plays.

But again a Warner aerial went astray. This time Harvill got it at the Bearkat 34.

Reinowski bulled to the 42 on the first play. On the second play he skipped up the middle, found an opening, cut that way and raced all the way down to the 15.

On the next play Shewmake found Reding alone in the end zone for the score. Shewmake then passed to Harvill for the extra point and Bossier led 20-0 with 15 seconds left before the half.

Offensive ineffectiveness and a resultant kicking duel took up a majority of the third quarter.

But late in the period Bossier took over on their own 23 and crunched all the way down to the Lion's six in 11 plays for their deepest penetration of the last half.

With Reinowski carrying on five of nine plays the Bearkats had little trouble getting to the six, but here Ouachita stiffened and third and fourth down passes were incomplete to give the Lions the ball again.

From here Ouachita took over and on 23 consecutive plays that consumed the remainder of the game, drove 96 long yards, all the way down to the Bearkat two - foot line and then tragically failed to score.

A series of Warner pass completions plus the running of Gordy accounted for the majority of the yardage on the night's longest drive.

But with fourth down and a scant two feet to go with 40 seconds left to play Ogglesbee went left, then tried to cut and slipped to his knees.

Bossier City ran one more play and the game ended with the Bearkats out front 20-0 and still in the thick of the 1-AAA fight.

Southeastern, Northwestern In GSC Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Undefeated Southeastern Louisiana and Northwestern State make strong bids Saturday for the Gulf States Conference football crown while the rest of the league battles outsiders.

SLC, the nation's third-ranked small college team, invades upset-minded McNeese, while NSC, victim of McNeese last week, plays Southwestern in the first televised GSC game.

Former GSC member Mississippi Southern duels Louisiana Tech, on a 19-game victory skein at home, and Northeast Louisiana entertains Arlington (Tex.) State.

NSC must win its tilt with USL to keep its title hopes alive. The Demons meet SLC next week in the final conference clash. An NSC victory over USL coupled with a win over SLC would give both the Demons and SLC the co-championship.

BULLDOG HOMECOMING

Tech, Southern Tangle At 2 P.M.

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech and Mississippi Southern, who usually engage in close, hard-fought grid games, will be at it again at 2 p.m. here today before 7,500 Tech Homecoming fans.

Southern comes to town with an outfit rated among the best in small college field, while Tech was among the elite before losing three of four road tilts. Southern is 5-2, with losses to Memphis State 21-7, and North Carolina State 7-6, while Tech is 4-3.

Tech will have to halt the passing and running of Southern's Don Fuell to have a chance for victory. Fuell has scored 61 points, has completed 48 of 81 passes, is a dandy at option running from his quarterback post, and handles his team's field goal and extra point kicking.

Tech, because of an impoetnt running game, will have to depend upon the passing of Mickey Slaughter, who has connected on 66 of 100 aerials for 682 yards and five TD's. End Jerry Griffin has caught 37 passes for 366 yeards and three TD's.

All the Tech - Southern games since 1954 have been close. The Rebels won 7-6 in 1955; 14-0 in 1956; 7-0 in 1957, and 14-0 in 1958 before Tech broke the Mississippi nine-game win skein in the series with a 16-0 win in 1959. The Techsters won again 10-7 in Hattiesburg last year.

Southern hasn't had to resort to passing like Tech since it has a strong ground game with Fuell, Jim Havard, Mike Olander, John Sklopan, and Dan Pugh operating in the backfield. Still, the Southerners have averaged better than 15 passes per tilt with 55 per cent completed.

Coach Joe Aillet's club will be trying to extend a 19-game winning streak on the home field. Tech's last loss here was 17-7 to Memphis State in a tilt before the old grads in 1957.

Greenies Given Little Chance Against Miami

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tulane—its football fortunes at a low ebb—play host to a Miami version of Hurricane Saturday night in Sugar Bowl Stadium.

Tulane, under fire from alumni groups who want head coach Andy Pilney fired and the athletic program revamped, have two rugged obstacles to overcome:

1. Miami's "dial M for Murder" duo—Passing wizard George Mira and his favorite target, glue-fingered Bill Miller; and

2. A stingy-Hurricane defense which has allowed opponents only 96.8 yards per game, the ninth best in the nation.

The Greenies, whose victory over Virginia Tech was the lone one of the year, have bowed to six other foes. Miami, with four victories, has lost to Pittsburgh, Navy and Colorado.

Mira, a 5-foot-11 sophomore from Key West, Fla., has connected on 36 of 79 passes for 504 yards and picked up an additional 116 yards rushing. Pilney calls him "possibly the best quarterback in the country."

Miller has gained 430 yards on 26 passes and the 6-foot McKeesport, Pa., product, a senior, is a potential All America candidate.

Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

Northeast State has played a senior college football schedule since 1951. Prior to that year, Northeast was a junior college.

WAVES RECORDED

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI) — The Uppsala seismograph registered disturbances Friday. The maximum deviation was approximately a hundredth of the deviation made Oct. 30 when the Soviet Union set off its biggest nuclear bomb, officials said. A spokesman said there was no indication of the direction of the disturbance waves.

Biedenharn Hall At NLSC Scene Of Phi Beta Party

The faculty lounge of Biedenharn Hall at Northeast Louisiana State College was the setting of a Mexican party when rushees of Phi Beta, national professional speech and music fraternity, were entertained.

Guests were greeted by President Peggy Morgan of Tallulah, Miss Jerilyn Peterson of Natchitoches, treasurer, and Miss Jerilyn Gilstrap of Monroe, secretary.

Setting for the gala affair was resplendent with large colorful posters, enticing travel folders and a mammoth sombrero on the walls.

Ears of deep golden corn were suspended in the doorway, and corn in husks flanked a picture of a bull fighter which rested on a low table covered with a cloth in bright tones. The picture was the work of Miss Gilstrap's brother.

One side of the room displayed a mass arrangement of moss centered with corn, and another attraction was a tall urn filled with moss, cattails and fluffy pampas grass.

Adding to the occasion's merriment was a gaily decorated wishing well flanked by palmettoes. Here guests dropped coins for prizes. Other prize winning games were played, then came the climax of entertainment. Each coed was blindfolded, led to the center of the lounge, and was given opportunity to break the large suspended blue and green pinata, which had been filled with a variety of candy. It was finally left to Miss Sara Womack of Bastrop to wield the lucky stroke, which added to her collection of awards for the evening. Her gifts included castanets, salt and pepper shaker set in Mexican design, and earrings typical of that country.

In keeping with the party's theme, typical Mexican food was served from a large table overlaid with cloth embellished with Mexican designs.

During the hours of fun, Mexican music was played to add flavor to the atmosphere.

Besides the membership and rushees, others interested in the entertainment were Mrs. Florence Z. Allbritton, senior alumnae adviser to Phi Beta, and Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, a patroness. Both are members of the Northeast faculty.

VACCINE TESTED

LONDON (UPI) — A measles vaccine developed by U.S. and British doctors has proved effective against the childhood disease in preliminary tests, the British Medical Journal reported Friday. The Journal said that in one instance, when a measles epidemic swept the wards of a London hospital where tests were being made, not one of the children who had been vaccinated contracted the disease.

Country Club Site Of Meet At Tallulah

The Ladies Day luncheon at the Tallulah Country Club on Wednesday featured evergreens combined with red fruit for the unusually attractive decorations. Hostesses were Mrs. Harry Holt and Mrs. Richard Hodges.

Ivy and pine with red tapers and apples were arranged in the lounge. In the dining room red apples tied to cedar sprays with red ribbons decorated the wide mantel and formed panels for the walls. Also on one end of the mantel was placed a brass candelabrum holding red candles. Extending down the center of the luncheon tables were twigs of cedar annd at intervals a red candle in an apple holder. On the officers' table the centerpiece was a pyramid arrangement of apples, grapes and cedar. Elsewhere at vantage points were brass containers filled with brilliant sumac foliage.

The door prize, a pot of chrysanthemums, was won by Mrs. Paul Lewis of Delhi. There was an attendance of thirty.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Although we hardly speak, my next-door neighbors' kids practically live in my house.

She's a fuss-budget when it comes to orderliness — you know the type — wet-mops her front porch every morning and shines the old mailbox with silver polish. She probably hates to have her own home messed up so she turns her kids loose on the neighbors.

They walk in without knocking, use our bathroom, help themselves to food in the refrigerator and even go through the dresser drawers. Their mother never looks for them, not even at meal time. I've had to send them home for lunch frequently. Frankly, I've had it. What can I do? Remember, I scarcely know the woman. — AMPLE

Dear Ample: Doors can be locked you know—and screens, too. If the children knock, you can simply say you are too busy to have company today.

Dear Ann Landers: I am almost sure my boy friend is taking dope but I can't prove it.

He has needle marks on his arms and his eyes always look watery and dull. His moodiness is more than I can stand. Some days he's in the clouds and other days he's in the dumps. I started to wonder when he quit his day-time job and began working at night. He never seems to have a dime on him and he has borrowed $40 from me in the last two months.

I can't get a straight answer about what he is doing. He says he's an assistant manager to a man who runs a tobacco store. The store has no phone and I can't get an address.

I love this guy and I'm worried about him. Shall I tell him of my suspicions? I want to help but what can I do? —SHOOK

Dear Shook: Urge him to see a doctor at once. The United States government has hospitals where dope addicts can be treated. His doctor can direct him. Remember that dope is an inseparable companion of crime. Insist that he take you to his place of employment. If he is mixed up in something illegal, make him quit or drop him.

Dear Ann Landers: I will be 13 in a few months but I am very grown up for my age. My mother likes my older sister better than she likes me and she gives my sister the breaks. This is what's happening right now.

My sister is having a boy-girl party for her 17th birthday. Mom says I can say hello to the guests but after that I have to go to my aunts' house for the night. I think the real reason I'm not wanted is because my sister is afraid I will get some attention from the boys. My actions are very grown up and I am cuter than most of the dummies she is inviting.

Do you think it is fair for a grown up girl to be kicked out of her own home just because her older sister is having a party? Please stick up for me. —VERY MATURE

Dear Very: "Almost 13" is still 12. This is too young to be a guest at a boy-girl party.

Your mother asks that you leave the house because she knows you won't fit in with the group and she doesn't want you to be uncomfortable. Your turn will come, and when it does you'll be glad you didn't rush things.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Stuck": If you signed the agreement then your signature accurately describes your situation. Guys like you shouldn't carry pens.

Sal Mineo Fined On Driving Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Film star Sal Mineo was fined $50 Friday for driving 54 miles an hour in a 40-mile zone on the Henry Hudson Parkway. He pleaded innocent to a charge of driving 53 miles an hour on the same parkway five minutes after the first arrest.

Mineo pleaded guilty in manhattan traffic court to the first charge of speeding last June 1. He then pleaded not guilty to the second charge.

Mineo told reporters he thought the police who arrested him might be trying to "get" him because they "didn't like my movies."

3 a.m. Popular Hour For Births

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two American researchers studied 600,000 births to find out what most parents already know — babies prefer to be born around 3 a.m.

Dr. Irwin H. Kaiser of the University of Utah and Dr. Franz Halberg of the University of Minnesota said a study of "spontaneous" births showed a statistically significant number of babies born about 3 in the morning.

They found the fewest babies were born at the more convenient hour of 4 p. m.

The report was made at a conference sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences and the Foundation for the Study of Cycles.

TO GIVE PAPERS

BOSTON (UPI)—President Kennedy will give all of his presidential papers to Harvard University when he leaves the White House, the Boston Globe reported Friday. The newspaper said in a dispatch from Washington that a Kennedy library will be built at Harvard, the President's alma mater. Most presidential papers are in the Library of Congress but in recent years several Presidents have either kept their papers, or returned them to their home states or the place of their birth.

Puppets In Orient

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK — TV's Shari Lewis went to Japan for a restful vacation, but she couldn't resist turning it into a puppeteer's holiday.

Shari, a 5-foot bundle of energy, was a child actress who, bedded by a broken foot, took up ventriloquism and got into puppetry almost a decade ago.

She hardly had landed in Japan when she and her husband, Jeremy Tarcher, went to Osaka to see the famous Bunraku-za puppets.

"I'd read they were two-thirds lifesize," says Shari. "But I got a surprise. They are 5 feet tall. To me, that's life size."

Shari came home with three of them — which she prizes particularly, if a little sadly. "They had been in the family for several hundred years," she says, "but they had to be sold to raise money for a daughter's dowry."

She doesn't fully approve of the Japanese custom which forbids women to be puppeteers — much as women can't be Kabuki dancers. But even so, she found it all fascinating.

"They look odd to Americans at first because they're made according to the Japanese ideal of beauty in people — a small head on a large body. They're considered more beautiful than people, more beautifully proportioned.

"But the most fascinating thing is the difference in psychology of operation. There are three men on stage for every puppet. They actually hold them and move them. They were black but the psychology is that because you're not supposed to see them, you don't see them."

Shari met several of the master puppeteers and learned why all of them are middle aged or elderly. She says, "In this country anyone who can bring a puppet to life is a puppeteer. But in Japan a person has to serve an apprenticeship.

"For 10 years he works the puppet's two feet. Then he's promoted to the left hand — for 10 years. Then he's promoted to the right hand and the head for 10 years. After 30 years he's considered a master puppeteer. He continues to work the right hand and the head of the puppet and he doesn't wear a black face mask on stage as the apprentices do."

Puppet shows, traditional stories always done in exactly the same way, are given two or three times a day in a huge theater in Osaka. Shari said they are accompanied by one man on an ancient Japenese stringed instrument and a narrator who sings, wails and screams.

She said the audience is large and enthusiastic but mostly composed of older people with only a few children and teen-agers accompanying grandparents.

However, younger people do see puppet shows — on television.

WHAT A DOLL—Shari Lewis exclaims over 200 year old puppet Azuma, still in use, shown her by Japanese master puppeteer Ashi Saito.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What can a 13-year-old girl do about parents who expect her to be polite to them, but who say, "Do the dishes or you'll get your head knocked off!"?

I try hard to please them and I don't mind helping with the housework, but can't they say, "Will you please?" —"MISS TREATED"

DEAR "MISS TREATED": It's a pity more parents don't realize the wonders to be worked through common courtesy with their youngsters. But don't "you" try to teach them, Honey. Just remember it when you have children of your own.

s

DEAR ABBY: I have a little problem with a mother-in-law who means well but is not as understanding as she could be. She is a "saver" and has saved all my husband's clothes since he was a small boy. That was 29 years ago. We now have a son who is almost five, and my mother-in-law insists on giving me all my husband's old clothes for my son to wear. They are as good as new, but the styles are old-fashioned, and I don't want to dress my boy that way. We are not rich, but we can afford to buy clothes for our son. My husband doesn't want to hurt his mother and neither do I, but how can we avoid it? — MY PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Accept them graciously, and then quietly pass them on to the Red Cross or the Salvation Army for folks who are more concerned with keeping their bodies covered than being stylishly dressed.

DEAR ABBY: I have been courting a widow for about ten years. She keeps saying she can't marry me until her daughter gets married. Her daughter is 29 years old and hasn't even got a boy friend. My friends tell me that this woman is just using her daughter as an excuse, and has no intention of marrying me. I am 64, own my own home and am in good health. I want to get married. Should I wait around for this widow who is playing hard to get? Or should I give some-one else a chance? I have a couple of women in mind who would say yes tomorrow. TEN-YEAR STALL.

DEAR TEN: After enduring a ten-year stall, I'd give the lady about ten minutes to make her mind up. Then give someone else a chance.

Fire Destroys Private Plane

MARKSVILLE, La. (AP) — A $98,000 private airplane caught fire and was destroyed minutes after it landed at the Marksville airport Friday.

The plane's owner, Joy Houck of Shreveport, La., who owns bowling alleys and theaters in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, landed the plane to visit a bowling lane he owns at nearby Mansura.

Houck, who has been flying for 25 years, said it was the first mishap he had ever experienced with airplanes.

Rep. Jack Dyer Charges Waste Of State Funds

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rep. Jack Dyer charges a lot of state-owned automobiles are being used to go hunting and fishing.

The administration critic, in a speech Thursday night to the Exchange Club, criticized what he called "that bunch of politicians with champagne taste and a beer pocket who are running the state."

The East Baton Rouge Parish lawmaker called for closer supervision of expense accounts and gasoline for state cars.

"And these airplanes," Dyer continued, "everytime Gov. Davis flys his son up to Newellton to go fishing, it costs the taxpayers about $500."

As for the new luxury mansion, Dyer said "Davis kicks Reily (James S. Reily, his chief fiscal officer) on the left leg and he says how broke the state is, and then he kicks Reily on the right leg and he says, 'sure we have enough money to build the mansion.'"

COTTON

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed 5 cents a bale higher to $1.75 lower Friday.

The market was again under pressure of hedging and liquidation although current crop months recovered part of the earlier decline on trade buying and short covering.

New crop months closed at or near the lows for the day, reflecting sentiment that there will be increased pressure in Congress to lower cotton price supports.

The declines in near months mainly reflected the active movement of the cotton crop to market, with substantial sales this week at the primary spot cotton markets.

Stocks Gain In Surge Of New Buying

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market gave a good account of itself Friday thanks to a surge of buying interest just before the close.

The utilities hit another 32-year peak rising 0.61 to 133.10 in their average. The gain here came chiefly on Southern California Edison, Public Service Gas, Pacific Gas & Electric and Panhandle Eastern, all up 1 or better.

Trading declined on the rise to 4,180,000 shares from 4,680,000 shares the day before. Of the 1,315 issues traded, 639 advanced, 485 to new highs, and 453 declined, 2 to new lows.

Among the oils, Standard of California jumped 1⅞ on reports that directors will consider a boost in the common dividend at their next meeting. Texaco dropped ⅝, however, and Jersey Standard slipped ¼.

National Steel ran up 3¼ in the steels where Youngstown, trading ex-dividend, rose 2 and Bethlehem added ⅜. U. S. Steel, off a point at its low, recovered somewhat to close with a loss of ⅜.

Ford, widely viewed as a split candidate, tacked on another 1⅛ to finish at 112¾. American Motors dropped a large fraction as the company's earnings for the last fiscal year are expected to show a sharp drop from the previous year. General Motors moved up a point and Chrysler dropped a half.

Litton added more than 3, Zenith and Magnavox more than a point in the electronics, United Carbon rose more than 2 in the chemicals, Red Owl Stores tacked on 3 points in the stores, Borden jumped 3¼ in the dairies and Westinghouse added 1⅛ in the electricals.

BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS

By United Press International

ANTITRUST ACTION

A Federal Trade Commission examiner Friday threw out antitrust charges against six of the nation's major manufacturers of "wonder drugs." The decision is not final. It may be appealed, stayed or docketed for review by the five-man commission.

FTC hearing examiner Robert Piper said he could find no substantial evidence that the six firms had conspired to monopolize the antibiotics industry as charged in a July 28, 1958 complaint.

AUTO INVENTORY

Automakers, trying to replenish thin dealer inventories resulting from a strong sales surge in recent weeks, have many of their plants on two shifts or working overtime, Ward's Automotive Reports said. So far this year the industry has assembled 5,442,300 cars and trucks as against 6,849,600 last year.

GASOLINE MARKETING

Oil circles predicted a nationwide gas war would follow announcements by two of the leading gasoline marketers that their super high octane service station pumps would be replaced by a lower priced product. Humble Oil & Refining Co. and Gulf Oil Corp. revealed plans to withdraw their super - premium gasoline pumps from stations in test areas throughout the nation.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market mustered a rallying tendency in late dealings Friday and finished with some small to moderate gains on the Board of Trade.

Both gains and losses generally were small, reflecting a fairly evenly mixed trade in the light dealings. However, rye continued to attract speculative interest and moved up major fractions or more. In soybeans, the August contract ran well ahead of the others with a gain of a cent on limited buying which appeared to be the long term investment type.

Wheat closed unchanged to ½ cent a bushel higher, December $2.03¼; corn ⅛ higher to ¾ lower, December $1.09¾-1¼; oats ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, December 67 cents; rye ¾-1 cent higher, December $1.42¼-42; soybeans ⅛ lower to 1 cent higher, November $2.42⅝-½.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP)—Marketings of butcher hogs were heavy again Friday and prices were weak to 50 cents a hundredweight lower for the largest Friday supply since May. The extreme setback was on weights over 230 lbs but others were mostly 25 to 35 cents lower.

Shippers were good buyers, taking almost all the 7,000 head offered at $16.65-17 for 190-220 lb mixed No. 1 and 2 grades. A few strictly No. 1s averaging 212 lbs brought the $17.15 top.

Mixed 1-3 grades up to 240 lbs went at $16.25-16.75 and heavier weights at $16-16.25. Sows topped at $15.

No sales of slaughter steers, heifers or vealers were reported. The few utility grade bulls moved at $18-20.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

U.S. - British Crisis

The most serious diplomatic crisis of the Civil War broke full blown on the nation in the newspapers of November 16, 1861.

This 30-day crisis brought the United States and Great Britain closer to war than at any time since 1812.

Cooler heads on both sides of the Atlantic eventually prevailed, but not before war talk had flared to the danger point.

Union editors twisted the British lion's tail in every edition. English newspapers fired up the crisis to white heat on their side.

The Confederacy watched hopefully. Perhaps this seizure of two Confederate envoys from a British ship on the high seas by a Union naval captain would result in the hoped-for intervention of the English on the side of the South.

The Trent affair started off Cuba on November 8, 1861.

The chief figures were James Murray Mason and John Slidell, Confederate emissaries on their way to Europe, and Captain Charles Wilkes, skipper of the United States sloop of war San Jacinto.

Mason, 63, was a Virginian, the grandson of George Mason who had framed the Bill of Rights. Smooth-shaven in an era of whiskers, Mason had been a U. S. senator from Virginia, had authored the Fugitive Slave laws and had publicly praised Preston Brooks for caning Sen. Charles Sumner of Massachusetts in the Senate in 1856.

Slidell, 68, was New York-born but had left after a duel with a theatrical manager over an actress. He went to New Orleans. As a former Tammany Hall man he had gone into Louisiana politics and soon became senator, made a fortune in sugar and married a Creole beauty.

Mason was headed for London to represent the Confederacy. Slidell for Paris in a like capacity.

At 1 o'clock in the morning of Oct. 12, 1861, Mason and Slidell with their secretaries and Slidell's wife and daughters, boarded the blockade runner, Gordon, at Charleston, S. C. In a heavy rain the Gordon slipped out of the harbor and through the Federal blockade for Nassau in the Bahamas.

Unable to board a ship there, the party stayed on the Gordon and headed for Havana. But the Gordon ran short of coal and put into Cardenas, Cuba, and the party went overland to Havana.

In a few days they boarded the British packet, Trent, and now safe, as they thought, sailed for Southampton, England.

But they reckoned without Captain Wilkes. He stopped the Trent and removed Mason and Slidell over the loud protests of the Trent's captain.

Wilkes was a 63-year-old naval captain of long experience, an explorer of some note, square-jawed, wavy-haired, with a court martial conviction against him for illegally punishing some of his crew.

As Mason and Slidell and their secretaries left the Trent, Slidell called back to his wife on the Trent:

"Goodbye, my dear, we shall meet in Paris in 60 days."

Wilkes took his prisoners to Fort Warren in Boston.

The country hailed him as a hero. He was wined and dined in New York and Boston. The House later voted him a gold medal. Even shrewd old Gideon Welles, secretary of navy, sent his congratulations in floral words. (Later he would be sorry for doing so.)

The Trent arrived in England November 28 and when they heard the news, the British were as angry as the Americans were jubilant. War talk mushroomed and the government began to make preparations for fighting. A navy squadron was made ready and 8,000 troops embarked for Canada.

The case had many angles.

Wilkes, in seizing Mason and Slidell on the high seas, had done what had caused the United States to go to war against Britain in 1812. He would have been within his rights to force the Trent into the nearest American port and hand it over to a prize court because the British packet was carrying Confederate dispatches, which Queen Victoria had declared to be contraband in an earlier proclamation.

Captain Wilkes had acted without orders — the seizure was strictly his own idea — and he easily could have been repudiated by the United States, even court martialed.

But U. S. public indignation was running high. Britain's quick warlike action fanned it further. The United States could not back down at the moment. Neither could Britain.

So Secretary of State William H. Seward and President Lincoln had to find a way out of this seemingly insoluble problem. "One war at a time," Lincoln warned Seward.

The British foreign secretary, Lord John Russell, drew up a stiff note to send to the United States. The language was formal and tough. Britain demanded the release immediately of Mason and Slidell and an apology.

The draft went to Queen Victoria before it was sent. Her consort, Prince Albert, softened the language, taking out phrases which would irritate the American people and gave Lincoln and Seward a chance to back out gracefully. Prince Albert, within two weeks of death, spent most of a night working on the note, although he scarcely could hold a pen.

In addition to the softer language, Lord Lyon, British ambassador to the United States, was instructed to lay some softening groundwork with Seward before the note was delivered.

Seward spent two days in seclusion writing his answer.

It was directed more to the infuriated American people than to the British government.

Seward deplored in diplomatic language that Wilkes had followed British, rather than American conduct on the seas and indicated that the captain had been too lenient, he should have seized the ship, too, and all its contents as well as the prisoners, because it was carrying contraband. He went on to say that the Confederate cause was waning and that the prisoners were not important anyway, so "the four persons in question . . . will be liberated. Your lordship will please indicate a time and a place for receiving them."

The British were not entirely happy with the reply but eventually acknowledged that Her Majesty's government was satisfied.

Americans understood Seward's language and calmed down.

Mason and Slidell with their secretaries were released on New Year's day, 1862, at Provincetown on Cape Cod, and were taken to England on a British warship.

Slidell went to Paris, 20 days late in meeting his wife.

By the time the 8,000 British troops reached Canada, the St. Lawrence River was frozen. Seward graciously permitted them to march overland through Maine to their destination.

Confederate Capt. Charles C. Churchill of Memphis, Tenn., spent most of the Civil War in the University of Pennsylvania medical school. Captured early in the war by a Union patrol after he had bid his wife goodby on the eve of his first battle, Churchill was sent to military prison. He applied for parole to attend medical school. His request was granted and he was graduated in 1865 at war's end.

U. N. ORDERS MUSLIN

GAZA (AP)—The United Nations Command has ordered 72,000 yards of blue muslin for some of the toughest soldiers in the world. It's needed to make turbans for bearded Sikh troopers from India, who won't adopt the blue berets worn by other UN Emergency Force units on the Egyptian-Israeli border.

WARNING IS SOUNDED

Fallout Protection Worries Japanese

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan probably has complained more and done less about nuclear fallout than almost any other country in the fallout zone, according to a leading Japanese authority on radio activity.

Radiation expert Prof. Yoshio Hiyama warned the government that something had better be done.

Only with the continued heavy testing and exploding of super bombs by the Soviet Union has any really serious thought been given by Japanese authorities to trying to take protective measures against the fallout that is sure to continue for months.

The government's science and technology agency and other agencies have issued rather stiff and simple instructions that any household could follow. But nothing substantial has been done.

The government asked the Atomic Energy Commission's Radioactivity Investigation Committee to determine a "warning amount" of radio-activity so that people could be warned if the fallout reached this level.

Such moves by the government raised the ire of some of the Japanese experts on the subject, particularly Hiyama, a biologist at Tokyo University and a frequent Japanese representative to international meetings on radiation.

"The government cannot tell the people not to eat rice or not to breathe when radioactivity exceeds the warning limit," he said. "What is required now is not such negative measures as warning the people with figures or instructing them to wash vegetables," he declared, "but a full-scale investigation by the government from its responsibility for the people's health and to map out long-range measures such as what to do if foodstuffs become contaminated. If the government needs the experts' knowledge, we will be very happy to cooperate."

Hiyama, in an interview with a Tokyo English language newspaper earlier this week, predicted the current Soviet tests would more than double the amount of harmful strontium 90 in food.

It would be much worse in Asian foods, he said, because of the eating habits in most Asian countries. He said a study he helped conduct "showed that the health hazard for food is three or four times more for the Asians than for Europeans because Asians eat more unrefined grains, which are directly contaminated by radioactivity."

The big question is what to do about the fallout. The only sure answer, according to Hiyama and others, is to stop the testing.

The government has taken some first steps. It decided to establish a radioactivity countermeasures headquarters under cabinet control.

The headquarters is charged with checking the amount of fallout, stepping up studies to determine the effect on human bodies, both direct and indirect, and working out measures to counter the effects.

West Envoys Skeptical On Soviet Plans

MOSCOW (AP)—Western diplomats assessed the new Soviet proposals to work for a satisfactory four-power Berlin solution as "probably a serious approach."

But they had serious reservations and were agreed deep probing is necessary about just what Soviet intentions are.

Among other things, these sources expressed fear the suggestions — leaked in the early hours Friday morning—might be meant to divert attention from the current explosive situation in Berlin or to stir up public pressure to push the Western powers to the negotiating table.

Briefly, authoritative sources said the Soviet Union has let Britain, France, West Germany and the United States know that it is prepared to make a new agreement on the status of West Berlin. When the Western Allies are satisfied that their rights of access and the liberties of West Berlin are guaranteed, they would make some sort of declaration respecting the "sovereignty" of East Germany. The Russians consider it essential that West Germany be bound by such a declaration.

No such proposals have been made directly to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, to Britain's Sir Frank Roberts or Maurice Dejean of France. Neither is West German Ambassador Hans Kroll involved.

But they were informed about them and met in Kroll's office for discussion. The West German ambassador will fly home shortly to give Chancellor Konrad Adenauer a fill-in before the latter meets President Kennedy in Washington.

On the surface, the new proposals would release the Allies from earlier demands that they deal with East Germany, and East Germany alone, on access rights to Berlin after a peace treaty had given that country sovereign rights.

Friday afternoon, however, the diplomats were asking: What if negotiations found the Soviet Union merely holding to its position that a Berlin settlement should turn over access control to the East Germans? In that case, they said, nothing would have been changed substantially.

Western sources said the ideas were somewhat along the lines tossed out earlier in conversations between Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak and Premier Khrushchev here as well as in the talks U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk had in Washington and New York with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Despite Washington's hints to the contrary, Thompson is not currently engaged in sounding-out operations on the Berlin problem.

New York Bill Is Passed On Redistricting

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican majorities forced through the New York Legislature Friday a controversial plan for reapportioning the state's congressional districts for Republican benefit in elections.

The bill was sent to Republican benefit in elections.

The bill was sent to Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for immediate signing.

At the opening Thursday of a two-day special session, the lawmakers approved the governor's $100-million program to spur construction of fallout shelters in schools.

The reapportionment plan, designed to improve GOP chances of electing congressmen, was threatened briefly by protests of several Republican assemblymen concerned about long-range political effects on themselves.

Five GOP members joined with the Democratic minority in voting against the bill, but Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino rallied a majority of 76—the exact number needed to pass the bill.

Promises of court action to block implementation of the plan arose in Democratic quarters as the legislature acted. One such pledge came from Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City.
